SOLUTION FOR CRISIS NEEDED, EXPERTS TOLD

MACDONALD WARNS OF SERIOUSNESS OF SITUATION

London, July 21 (AP)—(Tuesday)—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, decided early this morning, unless something new develops today, to withdraw his plea for a $325,000,000 loan for Germany and to ask, for the present, only for a continuation of the present short-term credits estimated at $125,000,000.

The German chancellor's decision was made on the advice of Prime Minister MacDonald. It would stand, he said, unless entirely new viewpoints developed out of today's sessions of the seven power conference.

Nither Prime Minister MacDonald nor Chancellor Bruening feels that a failure to give Germany a big loan at present would mean the failure of the conference. On the contrary, they feel that it is better to wait for a realization of the great objective of Franco - German understanding than to hurry matters too much now, even though this should mean still another terrific test of nerves to the German people.

BY ALVIN HALLMAN

London, July 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, opening the momentous sessions of the heads and near heads of seven of the world's greatest governments, today warned of the necessity of finding a solution of the present crisis centering in Germany.

After sitting for an hour and three quarters, during which the prime ministers of Great Britain, France and Germany made short addresses, the meeting was adjourned until tomorrow forenoon.

"The present moment may be one of the turning points in the history of the world," Premier MacDonald said, "for good or ill. If we can not find a solution of the present crisis no one can foretell what political and financial dangers will follow."

Praises Hoover Plan

He outlined the drop in commodity prices and the withdrawal of credits from Germany and explained how the proposals of President Hoover for a year's moratorium in war debts and reparations payments had steadied the situation, but had been insufficient to stop the German plunge toward economic ruin.

"Our position," he continued, "is to restore the confidence of the foreign investor in Germany. Otherwise it will be difficult to stave off the flood before it has overwhelmed the whole of central Europe, with consequences, social and political, as well as purely financial, which no man can estimate."

Premier Laval followed MacDonald. He outlined the course of the meeting which took place in Paris last week nd expressed the hope of loyal collaboration between France and Germany for the restoration of confidence and credit in the world.

Chancellor Bruening of Germany then presented his country's plight, giving statistics to show how far the Reich has traveled along the road to financial ruin, delineating the measures which have been taken to meet the situation and urging the necessity of immediate assistance.

The part played by the Ameri-

Green Bay Bank Looted by Robbers

TWO OFFICERS ARE WOUNDED IN GUN FIGHT

THUGS USE MACHINE GUNS, GET AWAY WITH $5,000

Green Bay, Wis., July 20 (AP)—A band of robbers, carrying machine guns, held up the Southside State Bank today and escaped in two automobiles with $5,000 after wounding two police officers and slugging several bank employes and customers.

The escape was made after a gun fight with the police and in spite of pursuit by two airplanes, mounted with machine guns.

While only three men entered the bank, authorities believed two or more were waiting in automobiles.

Witness Tells Story

The police were called while the holdup was in progress. As their car pulled up in front of the bank it was sprayed with bullets from a machine gun fired from a sedan. Detective Martin Burke and Chief Hawley returned the fire, and a witness Mrs. Harold Malchow, reported that they wounded one man who jumped from the sedan.

"I saw a man run from the bank," Mrs. Malchow told authorities. "He was carrying a bag in his hand and jumped into a large black car from which another man was shooting across the street I could see an officer shooting at the robbers from behind a tree.

"The car started quickly and dashed around a corner."

The other two followed from the bank and jumped into the sedan, which moved on.

Detective Wounded

As the men entered the bank, Frank V. Slupinski, assistant casher, four other employes and three customers were ordered to lie on the floor and were clubbed in spite of their willingness to obey. Slupinski and Earl Cayer, a teller, were taken to the hospital for treatment. Chief Hawley was cut by flying glass when bullets punctured the car. Detective De Love, one of his squad, was shot in the left eye and in the left arm. His condition was reported serious. Burke was cut about the head by flying glass.

Shortly after the robbery, Officer Denamur took off in an airplane to search for the robbers. Later another plane, piloted by Raymond Hegy with Fire Chief Ralph Drum aboard joined the search, which was prosecuted unsuccessfully all afternoon.

Shoots Five Times At Wife and Child, Then Kills Self

Detroit, July 20. (AP)—After firing five ineffective shots at his wife and 13-year-old son, William Golka, 34, took his own life with the last bullet in his revolver.

The Golkas had been separated for four months. Golka called on his wife and tried to take his son, Henry, away with him. The boy ran. Golka fired two shots at him. Mrs. Golka also ran, and Golka fired three shots at her. As he fired the last shot, Mrs. Golka tripped and fell over a bench as she entered a candy store on Conant avenue. Golka then took his own life.

Santa Fe, N. M., July 20(AP)—Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary, convicted of bribery in federal oil leases, tonight entered the New Mexico state prison to serve a year and a day sentence. Fall, brought from El Paso, Texas, in an ambulance, was taken directly to the prison hospital where he is expected to serve his time.

The usual photographing, finger printing, classification and numbering routine was dispensed with until Fall is reported by the prison physician, Dr. E. W. Fiske, as able to stand these details.

Fall came here from his ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., where he rested two nights after leaving his home in El Paso, Texas, en route to the prison. He is suffering from chronic tuberculosis.

Rum Runner Uses Gas, Escapes from Coast Guard Boat

Washington, July 20 (AP)—A complaint that an alleged Nova Scotian rum runner had eluded a coastguard boat by the use of noxious gas was forwarded to the Canadian government today by the state department.

Minister MacNider at Ottawa was instructed to submit it to Canadian authorities "for such action as they may find it possible to take."

The complaint said the vessel Cadet of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, had used the gas to escape from the CG-140 off Nantucket, Mass., on June 18. The gas was said to have been introduced into the engine exhaust of the Cadet with the result that the crew of the coast guard boat was made violently ill.

Von Hindenburgh Asked Hoover's Aid on June 20th

(Copyright 1931, By Associated Press)

New York, July 20 (AP)—The Associated Press herewith publishes the appeal from President Von Hindenberg of Germany to President Hoover which was cabled to Washington by the German president on June 20. For some reason unstated it has never yet been made public, either in Washington or Berlin. The following is the text:

"June 20, 1931.

"Mr. President:

"The dire distress of the German people, which is now at its highest peak, compels me to turn to you with this extraordinary step.

"The German people have lived through some infinitely difficult years, with a climax during the past winter. Even this spring the hope for improvement in our business and industry has not materialized.

"Every possibility of improving the situation by internal measures, without relief from the outside world, has been exhausted, the economic crisis from which the entire world is suffering strikes the German people, who have been robbed of their reserves through the consequences of war with especial vehemence.

Credits Withdrawn

"As the developments of the last few days show, the whole world has lost its confidence that the German economic system is in a position to function in view of the burdens now resting upon her. Large credits which foreign countries had given us have been withdrawn. Even within the last days, the Reichsbank has been compelled to give up to foreign countries one third of its reserves of gold and foreign exchanges.

"The inevitable consequence of these events must be the further serious curtailment of our economic life and an increase in the number of unemployed who already comprise more than one third of the labor engaged in industry.

"The ability, the will to work, and the discipline of the German people justify a confidence that Germany will live up to the heavy private operations and meet the private loans which rest upon her and which can not be changed.

"In order to keep up her courage to face life and the confidence

53 Corporations, Individuals Indicted for Prohibition Law Conspiracy After Long Probe

Baltimore, July 20. (AP)—Climaxing the largest and costliest prohibition investigation ever undertaken, a federal grand jury here today returned three indictments charging 53 corporations and individuals with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Return of the indictments, naming persons in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan and Ohio, brought to an end the investigation started in August, 1929, following the seizure here of three huge stills, used for cracking and re-distilling commercial alcohol for beverage purposes.

More than 130 witnesses, including Prohibition Director Amas W. W. Woodcock, Dr. James M. Doran, former director and officials of the attorney general's office appeared before the inquest, which was reported to have cost the government $500,000. Four times the life of the jury was extended to complete the case.

Vast Conspiracy.

Included in those indicted were the U. S. Industrial Alcohol company, and its subsidiary, the U. S. Industrial Chemical company, of West Virginia, and Maryland, said to be the largest industrial alcohol company in the country.

The indictments charged a vast conspiracy started in 1927 which went to the length of forming corporations for the purchase of industrial alcohol, so that it could resell the product to other companies and individuals for conversion into beverage channels.

Those indicted in the first group, charged with the commission of 49 overt acts included:

William S. Hatten, Lansing, Mich., former manager of the Lansing Paint and Color works.

Amazon Industrial Chemical company, New York and four officers.

The American Oil and Supply company, Newark, N. J.

2 ARMY PLANES HIT IN MID-AIR

Two Officers Killed in Crash; Two Others Leap to Safety

Newington, Conn., July 20 (AP)—Two United States army planes were in collision over this town today and plunged to earth, carrying two men to their deaths, as a flight of six service planes maneuvered to avoid an oncoming civilian plane. Two other army fliers leaped to safety with their parachutes.

The bodies of Second Lieutenant Benjamin Lowery of Hempstead, N. Y., reserve flier, and his observer, Corporal Harold Strosnyder of Wichita, Kansas, regular army, were burned as their ship plunged, struck a corner of the laundry of the Cedarcrest Tuberculosis sanitarium, crashed to earth and burst into flames.

Leap to Safety

Lieutenant F. X. Kelly, also a reserve officer, pilot of the other plane, and Sergeant David Spicer, leaped to safety with parachutes as their plane more slowly fluttered to earth out of control. Both escaped with scratches.

One civilian casualty developed from the accident. When Lieutenant Lowery's plane fell to earth, it struck Michael Petrucelli, 21, of Meriden. He suffered a fractured leg, cuts and bruises. Petrucelli had gone to the hospital to apply for work.

Tonight attention centered on the identity of the civilian plane which, the army fliers reported, dashed straight toward their formation, throwing them out of their line of flight and forcing them to maneuver in an attempt to avoid it.

Jack Lenox, deputy state aviation commissioner, witnessed the crash. He said he was flying some distance ahead of the formation and, looking back, saw the collision, but could locate no other civilian plane in the near vicinity.

EIGHT KILLED IN NICARAGUA

Insurgents and Guards in Street Fight at Managua

Managua, Nicaragua, July 20 (AP)—At least eight men were killed and several wounded in fighting between national guard troops and insurgents in several places in Nicaragua over the week-end, according to reports which reached here tonight.

United States Marine airplane patrols were being sent from Managua tonight to aid the national guard.

A guardia patrol was ambushed on both sides of the Coco river at a small place called Kisalava on Saturday, the report said, by a group of 40 insurgents. After sharp fighting the insurgents scattered, leaving three dead. One member of the Nicaraguan guard was wounded and taken to Puerto Cabezas by a marine amphibian plane yesterday.

Street Fighting

Disturbances were also reported to have occurred yesterday at Rama on the Escondido river, where a large group of men, believed to be disgruntled laborers, entered the town armed with pistols and machetes and were driven out by the

Youth Is Killed In Strike Shoot Fray

St. Clairsville, Ohio, July 20. (AP)—William Simon, 16, a member of the national miners union which is directing the coal strike in southeastern Ohio, was shot and killed late today when a group of pickets attempted to halt three employes of the Gaylord mine, near Martin's Ferry as they started home from work.

The slaying, the first fatality arising from disturbances in the Ohio strike zone, occurred when Joe Peterlin, 43, and two other working miners tried to drive their automobile through the picket line composed of forty men.

Peterlin told authorities he opened fire with a revolver when the pickets stoned the car after it had passed them. A brick sailed through the rear glass and struck the windshield, Peterlin said. The youth, standing near the car was shot through the chest.

Unaware he had shot anyone, Peterlin said, he drove to his home where he was arrested.

FLAMES SHOOT SKYWARD NEAR MT. PLEASANT

GREATEST DISASTER IN STATE'S OIL HISTORY

BY GILBERT T. SHILSON

Mt. Pleasant, Mich., July 20 (AP)—The first major catastrophe since oil was discovered in Michigan cast a pall of sorrow over this city today.

Eight victims of the greatest well ever brought in this field are dead; two others are in grave danger and a dozen more painfully burned.

In the deep woods 13 miles east of here, a pillar of flame continued to mount high in the air. Since Sunday morning, the plume of fire has ebbed and flowed like a geyser. At times the workmen, laboring in blistering heat, believed the flames under control. Twice the blaze sank out of sight as steam lines were turned on it. Each time it blazed forth in new fury as the gas was re-ignited by white-hot girders that once were the derrick.

"Hard Luck" Promoter

Tractors were unable to haul away the twisted wreckage that is frustrating all efforts to extinguish the fire and this afternoon, workmen with acetelyne torches were taking advantage of every lull in the flames to dash in and cut the beams. They hope in that manner to get the debris cleared away, then snuff out the fire for good.

The tragedy was the outgrowth of "bringing in" the "Struble No. 1," the latest and for a time successful challenge of Walter L. McClanahan, "hard luck" promoter, to misfortune which has dogged his operations in this field.

Indications had been good for a paying well and McClanahan boasted to his friends his luck had changed. He invited them to the field to share his pleasure and took them inside the enclosure. There gas, heavy as fog, blanketed the ground.

The well came in about 5 p. m., a gusher. McClanahan and his wife, overcome with joy, remained on the ground, surrounded by their guests. About 8 o'clock the heavy hanging gases became ignited, from a cigaret, an automobile back-fire or some other cause as yet undetermined. Scores of persons were enveloped in flames.

Manufacturer Dies

Those wise in the ways of oil fires, including McClanahan, dropped to the ground, held their breath and rolled the fire out of their clothing. Others ran, their

Small Yacht Found 2,003 Miles at Sea

New York, July 20 (AP)—Her mainmop mast lost in a squall, the Ketch Lismore, one of the ten small yachts racing across the Atlantic from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, Eng., was sighted 2,003 miles from New York by the Steamship Hamburg today and two members of her crew were transferred to the Hamburg-American liner.

The Lismore lost her mast five days ago and this mishap had delayed the passage so much that it was feared provisions would run short unless the crew were reduced.

The Lismore proceeded toward Plymouth, 1,096 miles distant.

Governments Transact Business Practically Same as Individuals

(Below is the first of three dispatches prepared by Charles D. Watkins, who covers the United States treasury at Washington for The Associated Press, dealing with various aspects of finance involved in the present international negotiations.)

BY CHARLES D. WATKINS

Washington, July 20 (AP)—In these days of fast-moving international debate, of moratoriums and credit turnovers and economic crisis, world finance has assumed almost a dominating place in the relationships of nations.

So involved are many of these discussions that they frequently take on an air of mystery for the average citizen. As a matter of fact, in their last analysis, intergovernmental financial transactions differ very little from what takes place every day between private individuals.

For instance, the huge war debts owed the United States by foreign nations are paid in much the same way that a person pays for an automobile purchased on installments or repays money borrowed from a bank with an agreement to reduce the principal by a certain amount each month.

No International Currency

In the case of the foreign debts, the amounts are stipulated in a debt funding treaty. The debtor nations deposit with the United States their securities instead of notes. The securities as with an individual's note mature on stated dates. Upon payment they are cancelled and returned

SETTLE FIRST IN "BAG" RACE

Covers Approximately 215 Miles Through Stormy Weather

Akron, O., July 20 (AP)—With an ominus storm at his back, Lieutenant G. W. Settle bumped his big navy bag into a fence near Marilla, N. Y., today to win his second national balloon championship after a 12-hour game of hide and seek with thunderstorms.

Lieutenant Settle and his aide, Lieutenant Wilfred Bushnell, covered approximately 215 miles, 25 more than Frank Trotter and Roland Blair achieved with their Goodyear-Zeppelin number 8 in an equally hazardous flight through electrical disturbances.

Lieutenant Settle won in 1929, while Blair and Trotter won in 1930. The two crews qualified today to compete in international Gordon Bennett cup race along with Ward T. Van Orman, veteran Akron balloonist who won the international event last year, and thereby qualified automatically.

Ed Hill Third

The navy balloon took off at 5:25 p. m. E. S. T. from the municipal airport yesterday and landed at 6 a. m. today at Marilla east of Buffalo. The Goodyear entrant started at 5:58 p. m. and came down at 3:30 a. m. near Stevensville, Ont., after crossing Lake Erie.

Third place went to the entry of radio station WJR Detroit, with Ed J. Hill, international winner in 1927, as pilot and Arthur Schlosser as aide. They landed at 1:05 a. m. between Wesleyville and Harbor Creek, near Erie, Pa., after covering 110 miles. Both Hill and Schlosser were bruised in landing.

None of the other entries lasted the night through.

This year's race, the 21st, was one of the most turbulent in history, and the winning distance was less than half that made by Van Orman, who sailed 562 miles last year. Lightning and rain buffeted the bags from start and natural gas, which has less lifting power and reacts slower to "valving," was used instead of hydrogen.

Thunder All Night

Lieutenant Settle and his aide twice despaired of beating the storms. "I never saw such a display of fireworks in my life," Lieutenant Settle said. "Lightning flashed and thunder roared all night."

The distances were scaled today by Van Orman as referee, but instruments will have to be sent to the National Aeronautical association at Washington for Calibration before the results are official.

Besides winning the right to enter the international race, Lieutenant Settle won the Paul Litchfield trophy. The time and starting place of the international has not yet been determined.

Muskegon Bou, 14, Treks Over Nation After Sweetheart

Los Angeles, Calif., July 20 (AP)—The case of Gilbert Watkins, 14 of Muskegon, Mich., who traveled across the continent to find a sweetheart who had given him a fictitious name and address, was turned over to the parole board of Whittier state school for disposition.

The boy was sent home in June, but remained in Muskegon only a day before setting out again for Los Angeles in search of a girl. Police found him on the streets and charged him with vagrancy.

The commissioner set young Watkins' case for July 27 and, meanwhile, is cooperating with the parole board in finding farm work for him. He said it was useless to send the boy home as his father had 13 other children to support.

Two Alaskan Bears Fight With Many Citizens On Street

Falls Church, Va., July 20. (AP)—Two 350-pound Alaskan black bears and several score citizens fought a two-hour battle on the main street here today. At the end one bear was dead, the other recaptured, and three men had been slapped and clawed.

The bears broke away from chains in the rear of the home of E. R. Makeley, an automobile dealer, who captured them in Alaska.

They ran wild through the streets as women and children fled to their homes. A group of men obtained arms and chased the beasts.

Fort Brady Trainees Enjoy Work and Fun

BY JACK H. FOSTER

Residents of the Sault call them "C. M's." They are, in fact, the young men of the Citizens Military Training Camp at Fort Brady. They are soldiers for the time being and they are a great bunch of fellows if you look at them in the right way.

And what a life they lead! It is hard at times but they have their pleasure and it builds them up mentally, physically, and morally, too, if the trainee has the right stuff in him.

The true life of the "C. M." can be summed up in an old phrase which Colonel Farrand emphasized while giving advice to the boys one day—"It's a great life if you don't weaken." This is true. What could be more right?

Up At Five Bells

Now we shall see what this life is. At "five bells" in the morning, reveille is blown, and amid a series of groans the trainees fly out of bed and begin their first race of the day—to get dressed and form in ranks before attention is called for the flag raising. If they fail to get on their puttees or necktie on schedule time, they are in for a "bawling out" from an officer and probably also go on extra duty.

After that they have a short while to clean up both themselves and their tent before answering "chow call" and making a rush over to the mess hall for breakfast to enter into their favorite pastime—that of eating.

The first move when breakfast is finished is to get into formation again and march "double time" out to the drill field for calisthenics. This is where the muscles are developed. Exercises are given for every part of the body and the trainees are directed to pull those muscles until it hurts. This is to help to get the "C. M." looking more like a soldier should look—shoulders back, chest out, stomach in, and hips back.

When calisthenics are over with, back to the company tents to secure rifle belts and rifles and out onto the field again for the day's drills. The rifle companies have been learning how to get into the different formations quickly and without errors and also the manual of their arms. The machine gun company has also been drilling on formations and of late they have had lessons in handling their guns. Two intermissions in the drills have been given every morning, to listen to talks on citizenship by Colonel Farrand and on first aid by the camp physician.

Program of Athletics

Afternoons of week days are given over to all forms of athletics such as baseball, kitten ball, volley ball, basketball, football, boxing, track, and tennis. Evenings are given to whatever the trainee wants to do providing he gets in for bed at 10 o'clock. Saturday afternoons and Sunday are also generally free from duty.

That was the program for the majority but not for the man doing kitchen police, camp orderly, or guard duty. "C. M's," take regular turns at these jobs but also get it for misbehavior. Kitchen police work or "KP" consists in merely an all day job at the mess hall and camp orderlies or "CO's" do work along the company streets. When a man is assigned to guard duty, he walks guard with his rifle two hours and then rests four hours. This is kept up for a period of twenty-four hours.

There is a lot of fun to C. M. T. C. and there is some hard work but if a fellow has the right "stuff" to stand the hard knocks and don't weaken, "It's a great life!" The Citizens Military Training Camp is one of the best things the country can do for its young men.

FLAMES SHOOT SKYWARD NEAR MT. PLEASANT

clothing ablaze. And that act cost several their lives. McClanahan and others who followed the first rule of oil fires. "Drop to the ground," are expected to live. Others are dead or dying, including Mrs. McClanahan.

Survivors and hospital attaches told tales of horror. A. E. Gorham, 50-year-old Mt. Pleasant manufacturer, ran to his car nearby at the first gust of flame. By the time he reached his machine, his clothes had been burned away. Taken to a hospital, he told his friends he was glad they escaped and insisted hospital attendants aid the others. A few hours later he died.

Women, lightly clad, were burned to the skin almost instantly. Two of them, Mrs. Lulu M. Guy and Mrs. Helen Guy, were making their first visit to the field to see a well come in. Mrs. Anna Lamb's husband, a driller, was among the injured. Thinking he would die, she said she had no desire to live and urged physicians to help the others first. She died.

Blame Cigaret Smoker

Women of the city and physicians from here and surrounding towns labored prodigiously to save the victims and ease their pain. It was feared that some of those not believed seriously injured might have inhaled flames or gas and that the effect would become apparent later.

Sheriff Day, of Midland county, and F. R. Frys, of the state geologist department, said today all laws had been compiled with in drilling the well. The sheriff attributed the fire to a match struck by a smoker. Workers however, were almost unanimous in blaming the backfiring of a truck. They said a lighted cigaret would not have set off the gas and that no match was struck. Both the state and county are investigating.

R. A. Smith, state geologist, said vehement warnings had failed in many instances to keep crowds from creating similar fire menaces in Michigan fields. Only a kind fate has averted similar disasters in this and the Muskegon fields, he said.

With the well still burning, the danger of further casualties is minimized, oil men said, but the danger will return when the well is extinguished. Gas again will escape and any sparks might cause another Holacaust, they said. The state police planned to blockade the highways near the well when the flame is subdued, until a gas-tight control head can be installed.

Operators here say the well fire is tame compared to those which occur in the southwestern fields believe water and steam will suffice to extinguish it once the white hot steel wreckage is removed. Should all other attempts fail, however, "Salamanders," men who don asbestos suits and place nitroglycerine-trinitrotoluene charges at the base of the fire to blow it out, may be brought in.

The death list remained unchanged tonight. Of the injured, Thomas Lamb and John Melvin were said to be in most serious conditions. McClanahan is given better than an even chance to recover.

State's Requests For Bell Records Upheld by Judge

Detroit, July 20 (AP)—The state's 17 requests for certain records of the Michigan Bell Telephone, the American Telephone and Telegraph and the Western Electric companies was upheld today by William S. Sayres, Jr., standing master in chancery in the federal court.

The records had been sought by Harold S. Goodman, special assistant attorney general, in connection with the hearing of the telephone company's suit to enjoin the state from enforcing present rate schedules. Thomas G. Long, counsel for the telephone company, had refused to furnish the records on grounds that they were inaccessible or irrelevent.

The hearing took a week's adjournment last Monday while Mr. Sayres prepared his ruling on the state's request.

BANK CLOSES

Charleston, W. V., July 20 (AP)—The closing of the Peoples Bank of Camden-on-Gauley because of a deficiency in its reserve was announced today by the state bank ink department. The last report of the institution showed resources of $125,086 and deposits of $87,999.

Germany Presents Custom Pact Case Before Justices

The Hague, July 20 (AP)—Dr. Victor Bruns of Germany today presented his country's side of the Austro-German customs treaty case before fifteen celebrated jurists of the permanent court for international justice.

Quietly, in a voice scarcely heard beyond the bench, he ranged from economics to political science, building up his case in favor of consummation of the projected treaty which has been brought before the world court by the League of Nations for determination as to whether it violates either the treasury of Versailles or the treaty of St. Germain.

France, among other objectors, contends such an accord would compromise Austria's independence, and it was upon the definition of that independence that Mr. Bruns trained his address. He was still talking as night fell and he will continue tomorrow and probably Wednesday.

City Housewife Reaps Benefits During Depression

Washington, July 20. (AP)—The city housewife seem to be "getting the breaks" from the low prices which are accompanying the depression.

While the dollar in the family budget is still below its pre-war purchasing power, it now buys over 25 per cent more than five years ago.

The department of labor averaged retail prices in 51 cities and found that when housewives went shopping for the dinner table on June 15, they found prices 2 per cent less than a month previous and 20 per cent less than a year before.

Such a staple as potatoes was 14 per cent cheaper on June 15 than on May 15. Plate beef dropped 6 per cent, chuck roast 4 per cent, rib roast 3 per cent, while sirloin steak, bacon, butter, cornmeal, cabbage and hens were 2 per cent less.

From June 15, 1930 to that date 1931 all 51 cities included in the survey reported decreases.

RATE INCREASE TO AID CREDIT

Banker Tells Commission Raise Would Bring Back Confidence

Washington, July 20 (AP)—The interstate commerce commission was told today by an investment banker that approval of some increase in freight rates, even if not the full 15 per cent raise asked by the lines, would bolster railroad credit.

Fairman R. Dick, of New York, made this statement in response to questions by J. F. Finerty, Washington attorney.

He had been asked if he felt freight rates should be increased on all commodities even though the commission found that in some instances an increase would drive traffic from the railroads to other methods of transportation.

Dick did not answer at the time but at the opening of the afternoon session responded with his statement that a partial increase would help railroad credit.

Commissioner Eastman today plied Dick with a long series of questions on the economic situation. He questioned the wisdom of raising freight rates while general commodity prices are dropping, asking if Dick thought such a procedure economically sound.

Restore Confidence

Dick replied that railroads could not help the decline in commodity prices. Taxes and losing branch line operations, he said, ate up much of the revenue from rates.

Eastman asked whether the "propaganda" of railroads for increases would adversely affect investments. Dick replied he did not think so if the increase were granted. In answer to another question he said that a complete denial of the request for increases undoubtedly would affect credit of railroads. He said he thought a lack of confidence had much to do with the situation.

"I have never seen the banks so full of money," he said, "nor have I ever seen such a demand for sound investments. I think the rate increase would be a psychological factor in bringing a return of much needed confidence."

Andrew H. Brown, speaking for the Cleveland, Ohio, Chamber of Commerce, supported the plea for increased rates. Members of his organization feel, he said, that the requested horizontal increase would meet the present railroad emergency.

Two Men Killed In Coal Mine Dispute

Charleston, W. Va., July 20 (AP)—Two men who abandoned the cause of striking West Virginia coal miners were slain today by high powered rifle bullets as they were about to enter the Raymond City Coal company mine in Putnam county.

The killings were the first to occur since the strike was called by the West Virginia Mine Workers' Union July 6.

The men slain were Clarence Kyle, 29, and Cyrus Shelton Spaulding, 41. Both had responded to the strike call but they later returned to work. They were about to enter the mine with Kyle's father and two brothers and another miner. Kyle's brothers said they heard two metallic sounds and Kyle and Spaulding fell from their mine car.

Young Gibson Girl Weds Football Star

London, July 20 (AP)—The youngest of the Gibson girls, Mrs. Nora Langhorne Phipps, sister of Lady Astor and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, today became the bride of Morris Bennett "Leftie" Flynn, former Yale football player.

The wedding took place in a register office and was attended by a number of friends of the couple. Mrs. Flynn and her first husband, Paul Phipps, an Englishman, were divorced last month. Mrs. Flynn is the youngest of the five famed Langhorne sisters of Virginia whom Charles Dana Gibson made known throughout the world as the "Gibson Girls."

City Decrees Men Must Go Unshaven

Centralia, Wash., July 20 (AP)—A vigilance committee began rounding up today men who have failed to comply with a city ordinance requiring citizens to go unshaven until the annual southwest Washington Pioneers' picnic August 11 and 12.

A stock has been erected in the business district, where "slackers" will be exposed to public view after being convicted in police court.

An edict was issued by the committee that moustaches are not classified as beards.

Mackinac Island Is Goal of Race Boats

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 20. (AP)—Two fleets of fast sailing yachts were beating their way northward along the two sides of the Michigan peninsula tonight with Mackinac Island as their destination. The first arrivals are expected here tomorrow morning.

The fleets started from Chicago and Port Huron respectively. The journey is the annual fresh water sailing race of the lower lakes.

At 10 a. m. several vessels of the Chicago fleet were sighted off Frankfort, standing up the lake in a stiff northeast wind. Leading the fleet was the Vagabond, Siren and Princess. The Dorello, Quicksilver and Privateer were close behind.

The other fleet was sighted in Lake Huron north of Thunder Bay during the morning.

A light breeze blowing in the upper lakes was expected to insure the early arrival of the racing boats.

BENEFITS FAR GREATER THAN SHE HOPED FOR

Sargon often triumphs in stubborn cases when many other medicines have failed. Read the experience of Mrs. Joseph Kinsel, 4420 Fifteenth St., Detroit:

MRS. JOSEPH KINSEL

"It made no difference what I ate, I suffered with indigestion after every meal. My stomach was badly disordered, I was bilious and felt weak and tired all the time. Hardly a day passed that I didn't have awful attacks of sick headache.

"The benefits I received from Sargon are far greater than I had hoped for. It gave me a wonderful appetite, and now I never have a sign of indigestion. Sargon Pills regulated my bowels perfectly and I'm entirely free of constipation, headaches and biliousness. It's the only laxative I ever used that didn't upset my system. The Sargon treatment is wonderful."

Sargon may be obtained at Ellsworth Drug Store.

Jack Story Leads Fliers In Kansas

Kansas City, July 20 (AP)—Jack Story of Kansas City led the national air tour into his home town today from Chanute, Kas., where the ten fliers stopped for lunch enroute from Ponca City, Okla.

The planes bucked through a heavy rain storm to reach Kansas City the night control point.

Story arrived thirty seconds in advance of Harry L. Russell of Dearborn, Mich., who led the flight by many points at the take off this morning.

To the accompaniment of rumbling thunder, crackling lightning and in a blinding downpour, Lowell R. Bayles, Springfield, Mass., James H. Smart, Pine Bluff, Ark., Eddis Stinson of Detroit and Eddie Schneider of Jersey City followed the eladers.

ALBERT B. FALL NEARS PRISON

Paso home of the former cabinet member late Saturday. A halt was made at Three Rivers, N. M., over Sunday and Fall spent the night at his Tres Rios ranch there.

This afternoon the journey was continued after Fall made a final visit to the extensive library which is one of his most beloved possessions.

Drove Carefully

The ambulance, in which Mrs. Fall rode with her husband, headed a caravan of cars. In a coupe immediately to the rear was Dr. J. H. Gambrell, Fall's private physician. Then came a closed sedan carrying Fall's daughters, Mrs. Jouett Elliott and Mrs. C. C. Chase, and a granddaughter, Martha Fall. The caravan closed with two cars bearing newspapermen.

The ambulance driver drove carefully, but averaged between 35 and 40 miles an hour. Departure from the ranch was at 1:30 o'clock and at 2:40 p. m., the cars drove into Carrizozo. A stop of about five minutes was made for gasoline, and the drive was resumed. Fall's condition was reported to be "fair."

England's summer this year was the sunniest in 18 years.

Rev. and Mrs. Heafield also visited a couple days with Miss Althea Colburn at her home in Tacoma, Wash. She is employed with the department of internal revenue at Tacoma. She is a sister of Mrs. Walter Hornstein of Garden and a former resident of Garden.

AMUSEMENTS

AT THE DELFT

Dorothy Mackaill, who is starred in "Party Husband," the First National comedy-drama of wedded life, now at the Delft Theatre, is supported by James Rennie, Dorothy Peterson, Joe Donahue, Helen Ware, Don Cook, Mary Doran, Barbara Weeks and the inimitable Paul Porcasi, who is cast as a dilletante artist of amorous propensities. "Party Husband" is an altogether delightful study of modern ideas of experimental marriage.

One-eyed Lights Bring Complaints

A dozen drivers who were rolling down the highways with only one headlight on their automobiles were picked up by officers of the Delta county sheriff's department over the week-end. They were released after reporting at the sheriff's office to show that they had made the necessary repairs and adjustments to their lamps.

In the future, officers warn, there will be no warnings. Motorists who are found operating their cars with a headlight or two missing will be arrested promptly, and may do their explaining in court. The headlight menace is regarded as one of the worst hazards of night driving, and local officers are determined to make arrests until the faulty lights and banished from the highways.

More Improvements At New Golf Links

Additional workment are engaged this week in clearing out underbrush and weeds alongside the various fairways on the Highland Golf club's course near Ford River Switch.

Most of the work is confined to the wooded areas bordering some of the fairways, where golfers have been having some difficulty in locating lost balls after misdirected shots.

By sifting the sand and applying another light treatment of oil the greens are being greatly improved to the increased satisfaction of the players. A new flagpole was recently erected in front of the clubhouse.

The new course is already enjoying a considerable volume of tourist patronage, which is aiding the club in making various improvements to the property.

Many Unemployed.

Iron River—With the registration of the unemployed mounting, the steering committee of the Iron county relief commission will recommend to merchants and other employers that the stagger plan of employment be adopted in order to ease the acute condition.

Municipalities have employed the system with success. The committee feels, however, that the county and community governments cannot begin to absorb all the unemployment, and for that reason other agencies will be asked to cooperate. Several stores are using the plan now.

The steering committee will appeal to the Iron River Business Men's association and other organizations throughout the county to assist in the relief project.

Tells of Trip.

IRON MOUNTAIN—That the difficulties which have recently befallen the German government in the adjustment of its finances have not disrupted the morale of the people, and that business at Berlin, the nation's capital, goes on apparently unhampered, was one of his many interesting impressions of his European trip brought back Tuesday by Charles D. Symonds, tenth district governor, who attended the international assembly of Rotary at Semmering, Austria.

"And another impression that I gained from my visit," Mr. Symonds said, "was the alarming and apparently increasing number of unsightly signboards we saw along the highways, from the train window, on our return to America. They don't have that kind or that many in the places we visited in Europe."

Mr. Symonds outlined the more interesting events on his trip.

Contributed to Delinquency.

Sault Ste. Marie—James Carr, 32, of the Hickler House, today was under arrest and faced a charge of contributing to a delinquency of a minor. Carr was arrested in his room after police officers found a 16-year-old girl in the room with him.

The girl was to have been taken to an Adrian, Mich., school for girls yesterday, but when officers went to her home yesterday afternoon, she was gone. Acting on a tip, officers found her in Carr's room.

Guests at Game.

Menominee—The sixty or more student priests at the Dominican College camp at Arthur Bay will be guests of Menominee Council, Knights of Columbus at the double-headed baseball game to be played at the Spies ball park tomorrow between Menominee and the Green Bay Stillers. About ten cars of Menominee Knights will go to Arthur Bay to bring the young men to the park in time for the games which will begin at 1:30 o'clock. The committee of the local council is in charge of the new lecturer, Walter G. Gross.

Sportsmen Complain.

Marquette—That sportsmen of the upper peninsula got a rough deal out of the state trout license law, is the opinion of Otto W. Schwenke, secretary of the Marquette Rod and Gun club. "The greater part of the fishermen in this part of the country go after trout," Mr. Schwenke says in the Northern Sportsmen.

"On the other hand, there is practically little trout fishing in the lower peninsula. The law does not require a license unless you go after trout; hence, it works out that the sportsmen of the upper peninsula are paying the freight for all the conservation funds derived from the license source," he declared.

"I understand that 98 per cent of the bass fry are planted in the lower tier, 2 per cent only coming to the north. It looks to me like a pretty raw deal for the northern Michigan sportsmen. The fair thing to do would be to have a general rod license and let everyone who fishes help to contribute toward the expenses of propagation."

New Tourist Camp.

L'Anse—"Resthaven," the new tourist camp adjoining the Baraga state park, was opened Sunday, July 19. The several tourist cabins, the cafe, service station, and steam bath house are completed and ready for the public.

A dedication program has been arranged. The Rev. Mr. Hillila of Ishpeming preached a sermon in the morning and after luncheon, talks were given by Dr. John Wargelin of Hancock, president of Suomi college, J. Perry Shulstad, mayor of Baraga, and John F. Fayne, president of the L'Anse Civic club.

Arrives With Plane.

Ironwood—Pilot Krause of the Gogebic Flying Service arrived at the Gogebic county airport yesterday from St. Louis with a new airplane, a diminutive monoplane of the type known as a "pusher," having a three cylinder engine mounted above and behind the cockpit. The plane, which can carry two persons, will be used for instructional purposes and is equipped with dual controls.

Army Worms.

Ironwood—Did the infestation of army worms found at the Gogebic county airport recently start from eggs or a few worms brought here by airplane?

Because of the fact that army worms have been unknown here until this summer and also because of the fact that the only place where they have appeared is at the airport, the theory has been advanced that visiting airplanes, possibly some of the large number that were here for the state air tour last month, may have brought eggs of the worms in tufts of grass clinging to landing gears or tail skids.

LESSON FROM CANADA

ESCANABANS who have gone a vacation jaunt to Ontario or any other province of Canada invariably return with one particular favorable impression — the courtesy shown them by Canadians everywhere they went.

Our Canadian brethren have the happy faculty of being able to make their visitors feel at home. They seem to be able to sense just what the tourist needs, be it merely information as to the best road, hotel or fishing stream. And that undoubtedly is why tourists are always loud in praise of Canada as a vacationland.

Along this line, George E. Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau, declares that courtesy is the best publicity in urging upper peninsula citizens to show all possible hospitality to Hiawathaland tourists.

"The coming of our guests presents an opportunity to every citizen," Mr. Bishop states. "The tourist must have food and shelter, supplies and entertainment. He is willing to spend his dollars for these necessities. But the thing that puts joy and happiness and a real kick into his vacation trip, is to have his wants supplied with a large element of human kindness and interest, to encounter genuine courtesy and hospitality. He cannot help liking people who take the time and effort to locate for him places of beauty or historic value, who inform him on highway conditions and directions, or tell him where he is likely to secure a splendid catch of fish.

"These little courtesies extended to the tourist send him away satisfied and contented, feeling that his vacation trip was worth every cent it cost, and more. He has been made a real friend of Michigan, a booster for the locality where he spent his vacation, will be forever a walking, advertising medium for Michigan, the value of which it is impossible to over-estimate.

"A square and friendly deal—that is the big thing. Cordiality, courtesy, hospitality cost so little, but they bring big dividends indeed, that will accrue to Michigan year after year in the form of ever-increasing tourist patronage."

TIME TO BUILD

ESCANABA is enjoying a home building boom from all appearances. All about the city the sound of hammer on nail can be heard as new homes are being erected and old dwellings are remodeled or enlarged. North Escanaba, in particular, is the scene of much activity. Many fine new residences have been built in the southwestern section of the city.

Much of the home building is being done by citizens who desire to use their spare itme to advantage. During the more prosperous times they have accumulated savings, and now they have the time and money with which to obtain their own homes.

For those who intend to build, there certainly is an opportunity today. Real estate is lower than it has been since the building boom of war days started, materials are at the bottom prices and high class labor is available at a reasonable figure.

From the standpoint of public interest also building at this time is advisable. It provides employment directly to the carpenters, plasterers, electricians, plumbers and other workmen, and indirectly to labor that is employed in producing the materials.

T-B FIGHT GAINS

THE vigorous and unwavering fight being made against tuberculosis in this state appears to be making considerable headway, according to statistics compiled by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. There were 2,912 deaths from this disease in 1930, which is about one hundred less than the average for the five-year period ending in 1929. The 1930 rate, however, represents a drop of 10 per cent from the 1929 rate.

Officials of the Michigan Tuberculosis association are fearful that the record might be marred during this trying period, pointing out that tuberculosis is in many respects a "hard times" disease. Proper food and care are the important requisites to effect a cure, and during the present depression these may be lacking in many tuberculosis patients' homes.

Thus, the evils of unemployment are forcibly presented. In such cases it is a matter of life and death.

TH E MOTOR BOAT COMES BACK

IT IS interesting to notice that the use of motor boats is increasing steadily in the United States. In 1919 there were only 91,000 motor boats registered in the whole country; last year there were nearly 250,000, and the number is still rising.

Thus comes a revival of an old and enjoyable form of recreation. Two or three decades ago every lake and river in the country was dotted with noisy, energetic little motor boats. Then came the sudden popularity of the automobile, and the boats were tied up and ignored. Now, with roads getting crowded, people are turning back to the water again.

It is a good thing. A motor boat provides an enormous amount of fun for its owner and does so at a fairly low cost. The man who seeks his recreation on the water, whether he owns a cheap putt-putt or an expensive cabined cruiser, is sure of getting a good return for his money.

NINETY-FIVE A DAY

UNLESS there is a sharp drop in motor vehicle fatalities in the second half of the year, 35,000 Americans will be killed by automobiles in 1931, according to figures just issued by the Travelers Insurance Company. This will be approximately 2000 more than were killed in 1930, and would make the loss of life average about 95 a day for the whole country.

If we could once appreciate the gravity of this situation we would undoubtedly be moved to do something about it. But the figures somehow fail to move us. We can't translate them into reality.

If some nation-wide epidemic were killing 95 people a day we would insist on speedy and drastic action. But it's only automobiles—so we do nothing, and the toll goes a little higher each year.

Checkers gives way to bridge in popularity among Cleveland firemen, a news item says. Well, hosemen should be rather proficient at rubber games.

RUSSIAN CABINET ORDER

On July 21, 1917, the new Russian cabinet issued an appeal to the army. It said in part:

"Three weeks ago, in compliance with the order of the minister of war, the armies of the southwestern front, under the leadership of the commander-in-chief, with mighty revolutionary enthusiasm, started an offensive . . . the mutiny in the rear has been suppressed by the people's authority, but the Revolution is still in great danger. . . .

"By the will of the revolutionary people, at the first order of your military superiors, march forward in close ranks. Save Liberty, save the Fatherland. . . ." General Kornilov, commander-in-chief of the army, also made an appeal to the troops.

The following day the executive committee of the All-Russian Councils of Workman's, Soldiers' and Peasants' Delegates decided to confer supreme and unlimited power on Kerensky's cabinet.

HEART of LIANE

(By NEA Service) By MABEL McELLIOTT

CHAPTER XXIII

"Oh, but that's Lady Devenant. She can get away with clothes like that."

Tressa shrugged. "She looks like a horse."

"Yes, but doesn't she? She's a quaint old piece. Frightfully rich. She asked Bill and me to stay at her place in Surrey once years ago but Bill had flu and we couldn't go. I was terrifically disappointed."

Tressa wasn't listening. Fanny rambled on. "Look, Tress, I'll stop at her table as we go out. She's taken a marvelous place at Palm Beach for January. The biggest one there—the one with the most gilt on the roof. Perhaps she'll ask us. You'd like that, wouldn't you?"

"No, not a bit. Besides, I don't think I shall be leaving New York so early."

FANNY was so horrified she put down her knife and fork which she took pains to handle in what is known as the continental manner.

"So early? What on earth do you mean? You know how desolate town is after Christmas. Why, you were saying only yesterday that you hoped we could break away before that!"

"I know but I've changed my mind." Tressa smiled enigmatically.

Fanny sniffed. "Of all the insane notions! What have you got up your sleeve?"

"Nothing at all. Or yes, perhaps I want to stay for the Beaux Arts ball. I haven't been since the year I came out. They say it's a grand party."

Fanny planted her elbows firmly on the table and took a sip of water from a glass of sapphire color.

"Now, Tressa Lord, don't dare to look me in the eye and talk such nonsense! I know you're not going to hang around New York for any such silly reason. What is it all about? You might as well tell me."

Tressa frowned in annoyance. "You do make a fuss about nothing at all."

Fanny brushed this away as irrelevant. "I know you. And Eva's going to be relieved when we take ourselves off. I shan't dare to broach the subject of any such extended visit. She'll be busy this winter if her plans work out as she thinks."

Lazily Tressa announced, "Oh, you needn't 'broach the subject' at all. Trust me. I'll have Eva begging me to stay. You needn't hang around unless you want to. Go south if you like and I—well, maybe I'll join you later."

Fanny shook her head in perplexity. "It's all beyond me. For days now you've been raging to be up and away. You said it was unendurable to stay at Eva's with that girl 'lording it over you' although where you get that crazy notion I can't think. She's the pleasantest person imaginable."

"Don't start on that again," Tressa snapped.

But Fanny was persistent. "I shall if I like. I'm frankly baffled. I'd almost got round to buying our tickets for the south."

"Well, don't. At least, don't buy one for me."

She erased the frown for a smile as Van and Muriel approached their table. "Stop a minute. Fanny and I are boring each other stiff. We long for a bit of gossip to cheer us up."

Muriel sat down with a clatter of bracelets and vanity boxes. "Don't know a thing. Sorry! Every thing's dead. Give me a cigaret, somebody."

Van produced one and conversation halted as it was lighted.

"What," Fanny Amberton inquired maliciously, "did girls say to men before they learned to ask for cigarets?"

"They pouted," Van told her promptly. "Or they blushed and bridled."

"Not a blush or a bridle in the lot of 'em now, more's the pity," Fanny remarked briskly.

MURIEL had slumped back in her seat, looking extraordinarily like a painted doll. She had a taste for the faintly bizarre in clothes and today she looked like the girl on the Christmas posters. She wore a short jacket of white fur and close fitting white fur hat. In this frame her sharply etched highly colored little face looked impudent and unreal.

"This is the most poisonous town!" she drawled. "Can't think why anyone lives here. Van, take me to Cannes, won't you?"

"At once?" His tone held the amused superciliousness of an adult for a troublesome child.

"Well, tomorrow, anyway."

"Sorry, I have a board meeting tomorrow."

Muriel forgot her drawl for an instant and became all sparkle and gayety as she bowed to a burly man in a blue suit.

"That's Hinty, the fighter. Met him at Adele's Friday for tea. Rather fun. Everybody pulled his leg and he didn't know it. I adore fighters, don't you?"

Tressa, appealed to, said, "I don't know any."

"Oh, but you should! It's very chic this season. Van, don't take me to Cannes until next week. Want to see Hinty at Madison Square Garden on Friday."

Van drooped his lids. "I thought you were going to the Garrisons' dinner?"

Muriel clasped her hands in mock dismay. "Heavens, Van! Don't ask me to do that! I'd die of boredom at the Garrisons'. Get me out of it. I must see Hinty in his little green shorts. They say he's the cutest thing!"

Fanny Amberton, having listened to quite enough of this, began to draw on her gloves.

"No, don't get up, Van. I'm just running over to speak to Lady Devenant. Hold the check for me, Tress. I'll be back in a moment."

Muriel drawled, "I want to put on a new face, Van. See you on the Madison Street side in a jiffy."

He started to make his farewells, but Tressa halted him. "Mind stopping for a minute, Van? Muriel will take ages doing her mouth with lip red."

He turned his dark, curiously inscrutable gaze upon her.

Tressa smiled. "Do sit down! Fanny will be back in a minute but there's something I particularly want to say to you."

* * *

THUMP-THUMP! Bong! The great drum beat out a jungle dirge and the saxophone wailed to heaven. Occasionally the man with the brasses abandoned his multiple instruments of torture and rose to add his nasal voice to the clamor.

The beat went on and on endlessly. Liane, dancing with Clive, felt herself grow limply weary. Tireless, the musicians labored on, adding bells and cymbal to the cacophony.

Now the man with the brasses was wailing mournfully. His woes seemed to be the woes of the world. No one in the Alexis Club paid him any heed. The girls shuffled around in the arms of their escorts, their young faces curiously masklike in the shifting lights. They danced without effort, almost without spirit. The music led them a melancholy pace.

Liane thought, "This might go on forever." Quite suddenly she wanted to scream. No wonder Mrs. Cleespaugh had objected to the expedition. The girl knew in her heart that she was being fanciful but all at once there seemed something curiously depraved in the atmosphere of this place. She sensed the grimness back of the waiter's almost cringing obsequiousness, the threat back of the dinner-coated captain's oily welcome.

"I'm slightly touched in the head," she said lightly to Clive as they threaded their way past innumerable tables at the dance's interminable end. "Does it seem to you that there is something vaguely menacing about this place?"

"Curious you should say that," Clive observed. "I had felt it myself. Never been here before. It's new and Tressa was anxious to come. She said Van recommended it."

"Oh, it's nothing, really." Liane shrugged. "Just my imagination I suppose. I've been reading too many stories of battle and sudden death among gangsters."

Clive said thoughtfully, "I wonder."

BACK at the table Tressa with young Lambert Hammond was sipping a pale amber drink and looking like a great lady on a slumming party. She was magnificent tonight in a sheathe-like frock of gold tissue. It fitted her as if she had been melted and poured into it. Liane, in her white satin, felt like a girl graduate beside her.

"Oh, Clive," began Tressa animatedly, "I see the Wayne Hopkinses over in the corner. Take me over like a sweet thing. Bert and Wayne don't speak, or I'd ask him."

Clive threw a swift glance at Liane. "Go along!" she told him.

"Lordy, I am sorry," Tressa trilled sweetly. "I forgot to ask permission." She gave Liane a stabbing smile and marched off on Clive's arm.

Liane felt suddenly very young and inexperienced. An older woman would know how to treat Tressa she thought fiercely and indignantly. There was something deliberately cruel in her baiting. And yet the barbed shafts were so carefully placed no one else had taken note of them.

She said "I beg your pardon" to young Hammond a moment later.

"Want to try this one?" the languid young man asked again.

Liane was rising with just the proper show of enthusiasm when a tall man, like a thin shadow in his black and white, glided up to the table.

"Mister Hammond?" he asked deferentially. "A message for you. The telephone."

"Curious," Lambert mused. "No one knows I'm here." He turned back to Liane, "I hate to leave you."

"Nonsense" she cried, determined "not to be a crab." "Go along. Clive will be back in a moment."

She sat alone at the table, fighting off that self-consciousness that attends the young woman left sans escort in a public place. It was strange, but she could not see Clive and Tressa anywhere. Strangest of all, the dark man who had summoned Lambert to the telephone was coming back to the table. He drew out a chair and without permission sat down.

Liane made one startled movement.

The low voice, persuasive yet with a note of command in it, said, "Sit still."

Liane did just that. In the mind arose a troubled memory of all the crime stories she had ever read.

"You have made a mistake," she said steadily. "I don't know you. Mr. Cleespaugh will be back in a moment."

"I know you all right," the dark man drawled. "You're Miss Barrett and you're engaged to that Cleespaugh baby, aren't you?"

Liane nodded. She was too frightened to resent his intrusion.

"We're interested in you," the man announced lazily. "You wouldn't like your part in a certain shooting in a 24th street speakeasy to be dragged through the papers just now, with your engagement and all, would you?"

Cold fear clutched at the girl's heart. "I—I had nothing to do with that," she stammered. "It was an accident. I was was blameless. And the man lived."

"Oh, yeah? Well, whether he lived or died there's a lot of people in this man's town would be keen to know this rich boy's fiancee had such a past."

LIANE sat frozen. Only her dark eyes showed her terror.

"You—there's nothing you can do," she said through stiff lips. "Anyhow, how do you know Mr. Cleespaugh doesn't know all about it?"

"Oh, it ain't him we're interested in. It's the old lady," the man said dryly. "She's gotta approve the bride, so I hear. That's town talk. And it seems she's pretty straitlaced. We want money to keep quiet about it and we want it quickly."

Liane asked for want of something better to say, "How much?"

"Ten grand. And right away!" He made an agile, catlike motion rising. "Your boy friend's com-

CLAY

They call us clay—and think what clay may be!—
A mudhole in a highway, or a field
Rich with the harvest that the clay will yield,
Even as we shall yield one presently.
Clover or thistles, mudhole, or a road,
Which shall we bear, and which to bear a load?

They call us clay—and think what clay may do!—
Spatter humanity, or leave it clean,
Be treacherous to travelers, or true.
They call us clay—think all that clay may mean—
Make easier or rough the road that man
Must journey in life's moving caravan.
They call us clay—and think what clay has been!—
Some daubed it on their faces; Phidias
Took common clay and put such beauty in
The name of Phidias shall never pass.
So his own sculptor each shall surely be.
What will you make of you shall I of me?

ing back," he said out of the side of his mouth. "Be at William Stream station Tuesday at noon or we'll spill it to the tabloids."

He moved languidly out of sight.

Lambert Hammond came bustling up to the table, stirred out of his customary torpor. "Some stupid fools!" he said in an exasperated tone. "They kept me hanging on the wire for ages and then announced they'd got the wrong Hammond."

"You look queer," he went on bluntly. "Air in here's like a zoo! D'you feel ill or something?"

Liane said, "The air—yes, that must be it."

"Well, here comes the rest of the party. Let's pay the check and blow, Clive. This is a rotten show."

Tressa looked blithely at the pair.

"Sorry to have kept Clive so long," she said in a voice of honey. "I turned my ankle and he had to help me to a dressing room. I do hope you two didn't mind."

Liane said "Not at all," very faintly. Clive managed to get to her side as they all went out through the narrow passage.

"That girl's the limit," he exploded. "She's trying to start something."

"It doesn't matter," Liane said lifelessly.

Clive gave her a sharp, concerned look.

"What's up? You look pretty well wrecked."

"Nothing. You just imagine it."

"Well, that was a rotten place to celebrate a birthday." He squeezed her arm. "You're a big girl now. Nineteen. Think of it! World to conquer."

She tried to smile. "You're all so good to me."

"Who wouldn't be?" His tone held a new warmth. He took her arm going down the dimly lighted, velvet carpeted stairs. Liane felt giddy as she saw a man at the entrance. Was it—? No, thank God! The face turned toward her was one she'd never seen before. She shivered.

Clive, holding the white fur wrap that had been his mother's birthday present to her, asked, "Cold?"

She snuggled in the luxurious folds. "No, but a rabbit walked over my grave."

"I shouldn't have brought you to this place. You didn't like it, did you?"

Liane tried to infuse some warmth into her faint voice. "It was interesting. Such strange music."

She tried desperately to forget that dark man in the shadows. She almost managed to believe, once she reached the luxurious shelter of the big car, that she had dreamed the horrid interlude.

"Music's all right," Clive returned dryly, "but what a gang!"

The girl did not answer.

WHEN she was in her own room Liane sat, hands locked, staring out over the shadows of the trees. She had put out her night light and, wrapped in her satin and eiderdown dressing gown, had curled up in the big chair to think.

What on earth should she do? To have that silly old story dragged through the newspapers would surely kill her mother. Cass was so proud of her. And she herself had been, in that adventure, so innocent, so ignorant. Worlds younger seemed that pleasure-starved young girl who six months ago had gone unthinkingly to dinner with Molly Cronin and "a couple of the boys." How was she to know the dinner would end in a brawl and shooting?

Step by step she reviewed in her mind the events of that fearful night. Cass's strained face . . . Molly's impudence . . . Shane McDermid's kindly Irish smile.

Shane McDermid! Why hadn't she thought of him before? Out of all the world here was one man who might be able to tell her what to do. Because of course the question of getting the money for these people was simply absurd.

Who were they and why had they decided to prey on her? She had heard of such things. She had known they happened in a big, wicked city. But that this should happen to her! Liane shuddered and began to tremble all over with fear and cold.

She thought, "I'd better crawl into bed before I catch pneumonia."

And, thinking of Shane McDermid, she finally did fall asleep.

Rev. Williams Has Suggestions for Munising "Camp"

Rev. R. C. G. Williams and family of Escanaba departed for home yesterday after having spent their two weeks vacation at the tourist camp adjoining the city of Munising. "A most delightful outing," said Mr. Williams to the Press.

"This two weeks stay at Munising," said Rev. Williams, "has suggested something that might be done, not only for the benefit of the campers who turn in there for the night, or a week, as the case may be, but for the good, also of Munising and of the general public that pass that way.

"Perhaps the powers that be have never stopped to think what a beautiful place the Munising tourist camp might be made into. One can become so familiar with the stars as to forget that they ever shine. Perhaps that might be said of Munising folks, relative to the natural beauty spots surrounding them.

"It seems to me," continued Rev. Williams, "that this particular locality has been well named 'the Naples of America,' nestling, as it does, in a natural horse shoe of hills, the bay out there with its rippling waters, ever making music on the shore, Grand Island across the way. The gorgeous sunsets' The Almighty Creater, surely, designed this spot beautiful. For loveliness it is a poetic dream. No one, it seems, can stay a while on the shores of Munising Bay and remain blind to its beauties, or deaf to its natural music.

"It is mid-afternoon. The boats are in from the fishing grounds. The birds have hushed their songs for a while. They await the evening and the twilight, the time for their vesper hymns, and with the setting of the sun they say, 'thank you' to God in their own way.

"And yet in the midst of all this natural wonder and beauty, one is sensitive to the menace that lies within and without the camp, and with that in mind I would make a few suggestions that I would ask the Press to print, to assist in making the Munising tourist camp the most desirable in the entire upper peninsula.

"First, a sign, 'slow down,' should be placed within a reasonable distance of the entrance of the camp, with a stop sign at the entrance.

"Second, sanitary and lighting conditions should be improved.

"Third, it should be made a 'tourist camp' and not a public picnic and petting park. Tourists come to rest for the night and do not want to be disturbed by midnight revellers.

"Fourth, the grounds might be easily beautified and a few things added for the convenience of the campers, such as a few more tables and stoves, a water faucet at the bridge at the east end of the grounds. All these things could be very well be taken care of by a nominal fee from the campers. Anyone will readily pay a small fee for convenience."

SEVERE STORMS

At about two o'clock Sunday afternoon, with lowering clouds and a very darkened sky, the most severe storm ever witnessed by the oldest inhabitants, broke over Munising and the surrounding territory. The first downpour of rain was accompanied by large hailstones which damaged gardens in every section of the city.

The rain continued for two hours, all dirt streets were washed out and even the pavement on Superior, between Elm and Lynn street resembled a small lake. The sewer system on Superior was inadequate to carry off the water and several basements in the business section were filled. Outing parties caught in the storm had much difficulty in negotiating the highways in attempting a return journey home.

Council Votes Sum Of Money to Send Firemen to Ripley

An adjourned meeting of the city council was held last Saturday afternoon, the proceedings containing several items of considerable interest to taxpayers and residents of Munising.

The council appropriated the sum of $475 to the fire department to assist in defraying the expenses of the members to the annual tournament to be held at Ripley, in the Copper country, August 11 to 14, inclusive.

A petition signed by Ed Corriveau and other taxpaying residents of the district asked for the improvement of the Lynn street hill, the widening of the road to 16 feet. The petition was accepted and placed on file.

Other petitioners asked for concrete roads on Onota street between Elm and Chrry, on Lynn between Munising and Superior, on Superior between Oak and Walnut, on Walnut between Superior and Munising avenue and on Munising avenue between Walnut and Hickory, on Pine street between Superior and Munising avenue and on Hickory between Superior and Munising avenue.

A petition was also presented for the laying of a water main to East Munising.

The entire costs of these improvements are approximated at $45,000 and the council has ordered a special election to be held on the fifth day of August to vote on the question of bonding $33,000 for streets and $12,000 for extending the water system to East Munising, and a public hearing on the 14th day of August.

The council gave Mrs. Ovid Berbue permission to operate a baked goods stand at the tourist camp.

Also, a city market was permitted to be established and operated on Munising avenue on the vacant lots west of the Nebel building. The market will be under the supervision of the street suprintendent, Mr. Everett.

Fire Breaks Out In Fromm Building

Fire broke out Sunday morning at about 7:20 o'clock in the Fromm building, facing south, on East Superior street. The east side of the building was in flames by the time the fire department arrived. Considerable damage was done to one portion of the structure and the water from the hose and from a downpour of rain in the afternoon damaged household goods belonging to the Fromm family, who occupied the second floor of the building.

The family was absent at the time, having just left for a berry patch a few minutes before the fire alarm was sounded. The front part of the building, ground floor, was occupied by Carl Reiter, barber, who was in bed at the time, and the rear portion is occupied by Harold Mattson and family. During the course of the fire it was discovered that a candle, imbedded in tar paper and surrounded by newspapers, was still burning but had not yet ignited anything. This was on the west side of the building.

On the east side, where the fire started, officials claim to have discovered the remains of another candle which, they believe, started the fire. Upon this discovery officials of the state police department were summoned from Marquette and George Froiam and Harold Mattson placed in custory and are being detained for information. Other witnesses about the premises have ben summoned.

Zona Gale Is "Good Lady" to Portage People

BY R. S. KLECKNER

Portage, Wis., July 20 (AP)—Letting poor youngsters dress up and put on "shows" in her Paris finery is one of the delights of Zona Gale, authoress who writes intimately of life in the small town.

Zona has lots of fine clothes—dresses she wears on lecture tours but refuses to wear in Portage, her home town of 5,000 population. To year fine clothing here would stamp her as a "fine lady," and she's not that to her friends and neighbors.

But the Paris dresses have their day in Portage. Zona gives parties for youngsters. They come from their cramped houses to the big house where Zona lives. Helped by Zona, they pin on the beautiful dresses and preen in miniature style shows. They like it, and Zona likes it.

Down in the squalid section, officially Mrs. William Breese, wife of a Portage manufacture, is known as the "good lady." It wasn't the international fame of her pen that won her that sobriquet. Probably most of the persons in Portage don't know she wrote "Miss Lulu Bett" which won the Pulitzer prize in 1921. And they wouldn't be particularly interested if they did know.

The others know her as Portage's "first citizen." That's because she's a leading civic character, always donating a park for children, giving a bath house at the beach, or sponsoring other improvements.

When Zona married the wealthy manufacturer a few years ago, her friends say, Mr. Breese set off a portion of his pretentious house for Zona. He had it sound-proofed so she could write in solitude and absolute silence.

That room is her private domain and from there come articles and stories of small town life to combat caustic darts from pens of urban authors who deride the small town as the breeding of babbitry.

"Small-Towner"

For Zona is a small-towner. And as such she stands up for her beliefs. She stumped the state for "Old Bob" LaFollette. She did the same thing for "Young Bob," now Wisconsin's liberal senator in Washington, and for his brother, "Phil," the Badger governor.

When Zona appears on speaking platforms before the intelligensia of the cities, she's Zona Gale, all right—but not the Zona Gale Portage knows.

Togs for Garden Wear

Two mighty cute outfits illustrate the shirt and shirtless variety of gardening costumes. Over a pink cotton mesh shirt is slipped a pair of overalls in a heavy, natural colored material with gaudy horizontal stripes of pink plaided with vertical stripes of blue and black. The big, floppy sun hat is of woven straw in pink and white. The second overall suit is all in one piece, sleeveless and low necked, made of dark blue linen. This suit is cut with a slenderizing V panel for both front and back. There is a stitched linen hat, of the same dark blue, with very large and very floppy brim. It has no banding whatsoever. With both go appropriate garden shoes and gloves. For no woman, though she be a good gardener, should sacrifice her hands to work.

Hundreds of men divers have already left Shima province owing to competition of the women, and most of those remaining are planning to migrate to Mexico as soon as traveling arrangements may be made.

JUPE PLUVIUS STOPS PICNIC

Rain Cancels Events on Program of Eleventh Annual K. C. Outing

Old Jupe Jluvius put a damper on the eleventh annual Knights of Columbus picnic at "The Pines" Sunday afternoon before activities had fairly well started, spoiling the hopes and pleasures of more than three hundred people who had assembled for the day's outing. About a half dozen events had been run off when the downpour suspended play at the beginning of the diamond ball game between the eastside and westside K. of C's.

Approximately a hundred people ate basket lunches on the grounds Sunday noon, the majority of the picnickers arriving on the scene sometime later during the afternoon. The outing was a fine success until the shower, which lasted for three hours, cancelled part of the afternoon's events and the evening program as well.

Results of events which took place during the early part of the afternoon are as follows. Dan Olesack won the race for boys 14 years of age or under. Second place went to Roy Houghton and third to Louis Bergquist.

In the girls' race for the same ages, J. Multhaupt was the winner, Miss Lavigne crossing the line second, and Geraldine Fouchard came in third. Robert Nicholson took first honors in the men's race, entrants being from 14 years of age and up. Elmer Tuffnell was second and Paul Ramsey, third. Margaret Oliver, Nanny Yoder, and Ethel Murphy, placed in the order named in the women's race.

Peoples Wins Race

George Peoples was the winner of the fat men's waddle. Mike Heinz came in second and Ernest Cournaya, third. The pie eating contest was won by Michael Bosanic, Stanley Mumford and Francis Bergquist. Another event which caused a great deal of merriment was the women's balloon blowing contest which was won by Mary Rubich with Mrs. Walter Bergquist, second and Emma Multhaupt third.

A baseball game between two teams in the American Legion junior was called in the fifth inning with the Westside leading the Crawford & Holland team by a score of 2-1. The contest was stopped in order to prevent youngsters from being hit by balls.

Then the diamond ball game started between the eastside and westside K. of C's and the rain as well.

SOLVE THEFT IN FAST TIME

Glen Munn, 20, Bound Over for Stealing Outing Equipment

Pleading guilty yesterday morning before Justice Alguire to the theft of sporting goods and articles valued at approximately $250, Glen Munn, 20, of Masonville township, was bound over to circuit court to stand trial. He was released under bonds of $300.

The articles were stolen Sunday morning from Edgar G. Ingalls, Minneapolis, formerly of this city, who is visiting here, and through nice work on the part of sheriff's department and a local fireman, the property was recovered and Munn was under arrest less than six hours after the theft occurred.

Ingalls in company with Terry Doran left Saturday evening for the "clay banks" above the Rapid River falls where they planned to spend the night and Sunday outing. Sunday morning about 10 o'clock they started to prepare lunch and while the coffee was boiling set out for a short walk. When they returned about 20 minutes later, it was found that many items of equipment were missing.

Tobacco Proves Undoing

They returned to Gladstone where they notified the sheriff's department. An officer was dispatched and accompanied by Carl Johnson of this city, and the officers, Ingalls and Doran returned to the camp site. Johnson in searching about the woods, found where a man, wearing an odd-soled shoe had gone through and following the slight trail found a coupon from a tobacco can, indicating that the man had opened a fresh can and filled a pipe. He followed the trail of the man which led to the Munn farm about a mile and one-half away. Going back to the car he learned that a can of tobacco had been taken from the car.

Accompanied by the sheriff's officers the group went to the Munn home. He was located at a shacker's some distance away and when accused vehemently denied the guilt. A search of his person revealed the can of tobacco and a pipe owned by Ingalls. Munn then confessed and revealed the place where he had hidden the loot, only a short ways from where the first clue which led to the solution of the robbery, was found. All of the goods was recovered.

Among the articles taken was a pair of binoculars and case, two steel fishing rods and case, two bamboo fishing rods, a sack of fishing tackle and six reels, a fly book and flies, a toilet case including numerous articles, a fountain pen, first aid kit, a hunting knife and the outers' supply of groceries.

T. W. Peterson, St. Paul, Minn., was a guest of G. R. Empson.

WILL PAY $15,000 FOR HAUNTED HOUSE

London—Wanted to buy—a haunted house. Willing to pay—$15,000.

Will Goldston, organizer of the Magicians' Club, is searching for a house in which ghosts walk, chains clank and piercing, blood stirring screams rent the air. The one stipulation, however, is that the ghost must be visible.

"With other magicians I have followed the work of spiritualist mediums for many years," Goldston explains. "Our club has now formed a physical research committee, and if we find a ghost we intend to live with it, take photographs if possible, and try to establish its identity.

"If we can really see a ghost we hope to discover something new about the life beyond."

Peterson Singles Champ; Freeman and He Win the Doubles

Norman Peterson won the singles championship in the junior tennis tournament conducted at the local playgrounds, Saturday, when he defeated Guy Freeman by a lop-sided margin. The ease with which he disposed of Freeman was a surprise to many of the local net fans, Freeman having an edge in the dope, although a hard-fought battle was expected. Peterson dropped the first set without taking a game, and then things completely reversed, with Freeman being the victim of a love set. Peterson came back strong taking the third set, 6-2, and followed it up to win the next match and set, 6-3.

Freeman and Peterson, teamed in the doubles, were crowned doubles champs, winning a five set match from Jadin and Hawkins to win the title. Play was started Sunday afternoon and Jadin and Hawkins won the first two sets with little trouble and had the advantage, 3-1, in the third when rain halted play. When the battle was resumed yesterday morning, Freeman and Peterson showed a decided reversal in form and rallied to take three successive sets and the title. Match score was 4-6, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

"A pair of big, wistful eyes and a fragile body that seemed inadequate to house them," is the way Colleen Moore once described Loretta Young.

Now the slim little beginner of yesterday has grown up and rounded out into the beautiful star of today. Loretta has grown until she matches her eyes!

"The Careless Age" gave her a typical leading lady's part, and the perfection of her work resulted in a powerful dramatic role for her in "Fast Life."

"The Truth About Youth" is Miss Young's latest, and it presents her in a decidedly remarkable characterization at the head of a cast containing such favorites as David Manners, of "Journey's End" and stage fame and the veteran Conway Tearle.

OFFICE SINKING

CLUB DOES BIG WORK IN YEAR

Welfare Body Has Balance of $310 Despite Heavy Demands

Despite the fact that demands were heavier and the amount of relief work done greater than at any time in the history of the organization, the Gladstone Child's Welfare Club closed the past fiscal year with a balance of $310.63 in the treasury, the annual financial report issued recently reveals.

This year, $461.19 was expended for groceries as compared with $241.31 during the previous year. Clothing and shoes to the value of $345.59 were distributed during the past year, whereas in the preceeding year the sum expended for these articles amounted to $105.15, over $240 less. Eighty-two dollars and forty-eight cents, twice the sum used a year ago, was expended this year for milk. The amount spent for drugs this year was also higher, $39.85 being used as compared to $13.06 a year ago.

Mrs. W. J. Mottle presided as treasurer during the year, while Mrs. A. S. Nelson acted as auditor.

The great demands for aid and relief and the belief that these demands will be far heavier within the next year was cited as a reason for turning over the nursing service, a phase of welfare work which the club had conducted for nine years, to the city. Welfare and relief work will be carried out as usual, however, with special attention being paid to the pre-school child, and the club will cooperate with Miss Willena Tracy, city nurse, in every way possible.

Mrs. E. F. Anderson Claimed by Death After Long Illness

Mrs. Emil F. Anderson, a resident of Gladstone for the past 14 years, passed away Sunday afternoon at the family home, 1515 Wisconsin avenue, after a protracted illness. For three years Mrs. Anderson had suffered with heart trouble, complicated by another ailment. In February of this year she was taken seriously ill, but rallied. Sunday she suffered a sudden heart attack which ended in death at 2:15 p. m. She was in her 39th year.

Mrs. Anderson, nee Mary Caroline Demarais, was born January 25, 1893 in Manistique, where she was reared and schooled. On March 23, 1913, she was united in marriage to Emil Anderson of Manistique to which union was born eleven children, eight of whom survive. For five years following their marriage they remained in Manistique, coming in October of 1917 to Gladstone where they have resided since.

In life, Mrs. Anderson was a devout member of All Saints' Catholic church, and a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. During her residence here she formed a host of friends in this city who will be grieved to hear of her passing.

Besides her husband, Emil F. Anderson, she leaves three daughters, Marie, Ellenore, and Ruth, and five sons, Joseph, Edward, Leo, Roy and Omer.

The body was taken to the Swenson Brothers mortuary to be prepared for burial and will be returned today to the family home where it will repose until the hour of services.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from All Saints' Catholic church, Rev. Fr. Sebastian Maier, pastor, officiating. Interment will be made at Manistique.

Seats which become sleeping berths, a buffet and a radio are features of luxury coaches on a new bus line between Paris, Berlin and Warsaw, the trip between Paris and Berlin costing $15 and requiring 27 hours.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, July 20 (AP)—Except that the focal point of interest was London instead of Paris, today's security markets were only a repetition of the drab sessions late last week.

Neither stocks nor bonds manifested a particular desire to go anywhere until the international sign posts provided clearer directions. Closing prices were generally better, although the contraction in stocks volume to 718,440 shares, the lowest total since May 6, 1926, made the rise of little moment.

Coppers Look Firm.

Oil stocks were strong, led by Standard of New York.

Copper issues looked firm. Foreign inquiry, which had fallen off materially last week, revived, especially from France. Quotations held stubbornly at 8 and 8¼ cents a pound for domestic and foreign, respectively, although home buyers did not want to pay more than 7¾. Further curtailment of production by two companies will help the statistical position.

Individual stocks affected by news developments included Bethlehem Steel, which rallied more than a point after Cyrus Eaton's retirement from Youngstown Sheet had been announced.

Industrials up 1 to 1½ net included U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Anaconda, Kennecott, Texas Corp, Standard Oil of New York, Du Pont and Case.

Utilities were rather quiet, but American Telephone rose 1¾ and American Water Works 2 3-8. Rails were inactive. Some of the amusements and specialties closed one to two points higher. The average advance was 1.5.

Although the national industrial conference board reported that the June decrease in general business was larger than seasonal, some lines are distinctly improved, which suggests that the pent-up consumer demand is spilling over.

CHICAGO PRICES

CHICAGO LARD.

S. shipments Saturday 869; Sunday 20; slightly stronger on good stock; trading rather slow; sacked per cwt., Missouri Cobblers 1.05 to 1.20; Kansas 1.00 to 1.10; poor lower; Arkansas Triumphs 1.50 to 1.75; Oregon 2.00; East Shore Virginia barrel Cobblers 2.50 to 2.60; Norfolk section showing decay 2.25.

CHICAGO EGGS.
Chicago, July 20.—Eggs 19,108; unsettled; extra firsts 20 to 21; fresh graded firsts 19; current receipts 15 to 17.

CHICAGO BUTTER.
Chicago, July 20.—Butter prices declined ¼ to ½c today on top and medium scores. Fresh 93 score 25 to 25½; 92, 24½; 91, 23½; 90, 23; 89, 22½; 88, 21½; 87, 20. Centralized carlots: 90 score 24¼; 89, 23; 88, 21½.

CHICAGO WHEAT.
Chicago, July 20.—Quick breaks in corn prices today resulted from widespread heavy rains that came just in the nick of time to dispel fears of crop shortage. Big sales of corn against simultaneous purchasing of wheat put the corn market under pressure, whereas wheat developed comparative strength despite 7,198,000 bushels increase of the United States wheat visible supply. World shipments of wheat were the smallest in a long while, and stocks afloat for Europe decreased 4,120,000 bushels.

Corn closed unsettled, 1½ to 2 3-8 cents lower, wheat unchanged to ½ off, oats 5-8 to 7-8 down, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Surprising firmness of wheat was in the face of big receipts here that more than fulfilled predictions, 1,396 cars, against 950 on the corresponding day last week and 1,221 at this time last year. Southwest advices indicated some lessening of the harvest movement soon, but the outlook pointed to substantial receipts for a long time.

Grain traders kept sharp watch on international financial developments, but prices were less affected today by this factor than of late. For at least the time being, export business in wheat was sluggish. Oats sympathized with corn rather than wheat.

Provisions reflected hog market declines. Closing indemnities: Wheat July 53 bid; Sept. 53, 54; Dec. 57 1-8 to ¼, 58 3-8.

Corn July 55½, 5-8 bid; Sept. 50 7-8, 52 5-8 to 3-4; Dec. 44 3-8 to ½, 45 3-4 to 7-8.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK.
Chicago, July 20.—Hogs 40,000 including 12,000 direct; closed slow, unevenly 10 to 25 lower than Friday's average; spots off more; early top 7.85; late bulk 170 to 220 lbs. 7.50 to 7.65; 230 to 280 lbs. 6.40 to 7.35; pigs 6.00 to 7.00; packing sows 4.35 to 5.50; shippers 7,000; estimated holdover 9,000.

Sheep 18,000; closing slow; fat lambs mostly 50 lower; sheep 25 to 50 down; bulk range lambs 7.00 to 7.50 to packers; best 7.75 to shippers; good and choice natives 7.00 to 7.75; choice 85-lb. yearlings 6.00; lambs 90 lbs. down, good and choice 6.75 to 8.00; medium 5.25 to 6.75; all weights common 4.00 to 5.25; ewes 90 to 150 lbs. medium to choice 1.75 to 3.50; all weights cull and common 1.00 to 2.00; feeding lambs 60 to 75 lbs., good and choice 5.00 to 5.75.

New York, July 20. (AP)—The bond market hung up a new record for dullness today when sales on the stock exchange aggregated $6,324,000 at par values, the smallest total for a full session since Aug. 11, 1930 when the turnover amounted to $5,923,000.

Average prices for ten representative issues each of the railroad, industrial and public utility groups indicated a declining trend among the two former groups but the significant feature of the trading was the dullness.

Closing sales of foreign obligations left no doubt as to their trend, although they were not all consistently strong. German 7s of 1949 and the 5½s of 1965 started the day higher but ended it lower. Other German loans rose irregularly.

Bill to Stop Married Women Working Finds Some Support

BY SAM B. M'COOL

Lansing, July (AP)—Although the Dykstra bill to prohibit married women from working in certain cases was deluged in ridicule during the last session of the legislature, the purpose behind the measure has the support of many persons in the state.

Rep. John Dykstra, of Muskegon, wanted a law to rule women with financially-competent husbands from employment lists. His bill provided that no such woman be permitted to obtain a job and that no employer be allowed to hire such a woman. The Muskegon legislator saw in his measure a quick method of relieving economic distress. He contended there are many double wage-earners in Michigan families. Representative Dykstra believes the matter will come in for more and more attention at future sessions of the legislature.

Representative Dykstra is not alone in his fight. After the bill was introduced, his desk was crammed with correspondence, both critical and laudatory. Some even saw in his plan a ready solution for business depression.

Nowhere in the state at the time was there more consternation over the fate of the Dykstra bill than at the state capital. Fear spread through the corridors of the legislative halls and into the state offices despite ready opinions that the Dykstra bill in its form at that time probably would prove to be unconstitutional.

The reason for the concern over the Dykstra bill at the capital was traced to the large number of women employes. There are slightly more than 1,000 women employed by the state in the capitol and state office building. More than this number work for the state outside Lansing, in hospitals, colleges, and other state institutions. There are nearly 3,000 women at work for the state, representing a cross-section of feminine life in Michigan.

Female Help Cheaper?

Some of the women have working husbands who are able to support them. Some of the younger women are from families that are in the same category. Their work is more or less of an avocation, or career.

The number of financially independent women working for the state, however, is in the minority. Enactment of the Dykstra bill principle into law could barely be expected to provide much relief for male unemployment as far as the state is concerned, observers here point out. The average salary of the woman employe is about $1,200 a year. Those familiar with the problem say that the same quality of male workmanship could not be obtained at such a low cost.

The rank and file of feminine labor at the capitol is made up of stenographers, bookkeepers, operators of valuating machines, and similar work. A few executives are scattered here and there. There is a woman labor commissioner. The head of the corporation division of the department of state is a woman and a successful attorney. A woman in the administrative board department has much to say about budgets and expenditures. Then there are a number of private secretaries, headed by the woman secretary to the governor.

There are 231 women working for the department of state, the greatest feminine representation in any department. In the same department there are 176 men. Auditor General O. B. Fuller, who has operated his office at a minimum cost for years, has 143 women and 45 men working under him. The highway department has 105 women and 792 men; the health division 92 women and 83 men; the state administrative board 66 women and 36 men; public instruction, 36 women and 15 men; conservation, 38 women and 731 men, and labor and industry, 47 women and 41 men.

Grock, the famous clown, whose real name is Charles Adrien Wettach, has retired from the stage after making a final appearance at the Scala Theatre in Berlin, Germany, and will make his home at San Remo, Italy, where he has a beautiful villa.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

New York, July 20. (AP)—

Stocks firm; trading dullest in five years.

Bonds irregular; German issues react.

Curb dull; oils advance.

Foreign exchanges steady; German mark strong.

Cotton higher; steady cables and trade buying.

Sugar steady; firmer refined market.

Coffee lower; Brazilian selling.

Chicago:

Wheat lower; large visible supply increase.

Corn lower; good rains southwest.

Cattle irregular.

Hogs weak to lower.

Actresses Get $35 a Night.

Male actors of Budapest, Hungary, are disgruntled over the wage scale just announced by the Theatre Managers' Association of the city. The maximum pay for men is to be $27.50 a night, and that for women $35. Managers are reported to have figured that it costs a woman more than it does a man to be well dressed.

Curb Mart Pushes Ahead In Spite of Trading Dullness

New York, July 20. (AP)—The curb market pushed ahead substantially today, despite the slimest volume of trading in recent years.

The day's turnover approximated 160,000 shares, or 30,000 less than the previous 1931 full session low.

Oils were conspicuously strong under the leadership of Vacuum and Solar Refining, which have recently attracted active professional sponsorship. Each pushed up 2½ points, Solar reaching a new high at 13 3-8, from which it receded ⅜ of a point before the finish. Gulf and Humble got up 4 points, but the former lost 1½ of its extreme gain.

In the utilities American Gas and Electric gained more than 3 points, and Electric Bond and Shares, with a gain or more than a point, got above 40 once more.

Industrials and specialties were rather neglected.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS INCREASE

The cost of old-age pensions to taxpayers of England this year is $1,750,000 greater than was expected, and had to be covered in a supplementary estimate. Government heads say this increase is because of old methods of estimating the tenure of life, which now for women is 12 years, and for men 10 years longer than it was at the beginning of this century.

TAYLOR SLAMS THREE BAGGER

Hemsley's Single Brings Home Winning Run in Seventh Frame

Chicago, July 20. (AP)—Watson Clark held the Chicago Cubs to three hits today but the Brooklyn Robins lost their first game of the series, 1 to 0.

The Cubs bunched two of their three hits—Day Taylor's triple and Hemsley's single—in the seventh. The Robins got to Charley Root for seven safe blows but the Cubs' ace was unhittable when hits meant runs. Hack Wilson was again benched by Manager Hornsby for not hitting.

GOVERMENTS DO BUSINESS LIKE PERSONS

just as a bank returns a cancelled note to the maker. If just one bond has been deposited, credit is given the debtor nation just as the finance company through which the automobile was purchased, credits payments on it.

But in one respect there is a difference between international transactions and those between citizens of the same community. This difference exists in the machinery for carrying on international trade.

There is no international currency and gold is the only international money. But gold is too bulky and valuable to ship back and forth across the ocean every time a purchase of goods is made between nations. Besides there is not nearly enough gold in the world to cover the tremendous payments involved in international trade.

To escape shipping gold, a merchant in a foreign country buying merchandise in the United States must have credit in this country. If he cannot obtain dollar credit in the United States or purchase it from his own bank, then gold must be sent to pay the bill.

General Credit

But credit can be obtained generally. For instance, a tourist from the United States goes to his bank in this country and purchases a letter of credit on a foreign bank for $1,000. He spends that credit abroad and those to whom he pays it deposit the credit with their banks. Those banks then have a credit with the American bank for $1,000 which may be drawn upon to pay debts owed in the United States. The system operates when firms here buy goods from foreign companies.

When there is little demand for United States credit in a foreign country the merchant there can buy it at a reasonable premium from his bank which has received it from its customers. But when the demand is great the premium goes up and finally reaches a point at which it is cheaper to ship gold to the United States than to buy dollar credit.

The total of world gold stocks is a little more than $11,000,000,000. Of this the United States holds $4,965,000,000, France approximately $2,000,000,000 and the remainder of the world about $4,000,000,000.

Corroboration of the theory that light-sensitive rosin is the cause of the "yellowing" of better grades of paper has been found by the bureau of standards.

BEAT PING'S TEAM

The Knights of Columbus ran roughshod over Ping's baseball team of the Soo here Sunday afternoon, winning hands down, 14 to 7, after getting off to a four-run lead in the first inning. With the exception of the second inning, the Kaysees tallied in every frame.

In the second game, the Ping's squad was leading the Necos by 3 to 1 when the game was called because of the rainstorm in the third inning.

COPS BEAT KNIGHTS

The Cops put on their batting clothes last evening and pulled the purprise of the season by walloping the league leading Knights of Columbus, 21 to 8, in an American League game.

Undaunted by the six runs that the Knights chalked up in the first inning, the Cops came back in the following innings to score almost at will.

NEVERSWEATS WIN

BEAT EMPOPS, 15-4

SOLUTION FOR CRISIS NEEDED, EXPERTS TOLD

can delegates at today's session negligible on the surface, but actually, from Secretary Stimson's early morning conference with the prime minister, both Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon have been almost as busy as Prime Minister MacDonald.

There were cheers and shouts in four or five languages as automobiles bearing German, French, Belgian and Italian delegates sped away.

There was only one dissenting note. A band of brown-shirted German fascists shouted "down with Bruening! Up with Hitler!"

There were various estimates on the length of the conference, but hints were given in some authoritative quarters that some action must be taken within a day or two.

CONCRETE PLANS

Washington, July 20 (AP)—Concrete proposals by the American government to relieve Germany's economic stress were approved tonight by President Hoover and placed in the hands of Secretary Stimson for submission to the interested powers.

Acting Secretary Castle of the state department, said they were in the nature of "suggestions." He declined to comment further. The proposals will be submitted to the London ministers' conference at tomorrow's session.

SENATORS TAKE EASY VICTORY

Detroit Tigers Defeated Seventh Straight at Washington, 7-3

Washington, July 20. (AP)—The Senators fell on Elon Hogsett for six singles in the second inning today and, aided by two Bengal errors, scored six runs. Then they coasted to a 7 to 3 victory, the seventh consecutive defeat for the touring Tigers.

Hogsett survived the second inning attack, but went to the showers after the fourth inning, having yielded 11 hits and a pass. Sullivan, who succeeded him, allowed only one hit and a pass.

Mark Koenig led the Tiger attack with four singles in as many times at bat, but it was Walker, Gehringer and McManus who batted in the three Bengal runs and Johnson, Walker and Hayworth who scored them, one in the third and two in the eighth. The Tigers found Marberry for 11 hits, but they were well scattered.

Sam Rice, of Senators, all but duplicated Koenig's batting achievements, hitting three singles and taking a walk in four trips.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Senators.

JUNIOR TENNIS MEET PLANNED

Younger Net Players of City to Compete on Local Tourney

The third annual junior boys' tennis tournament for boys under 15 years of age will be held on Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. Competition will be held in both the singles and the doubles. There will be an entry fee of ten cents per player in the singles, with a charge of ten cents per player in the doubles. Drawings will be held at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and entries will close at that time. All entries can be given to H. C. Olson at 112 South Eighth street, or can be mailed to that address.

Last year's tournament was won by Fred Boddy, and Chester Olson and Boddy won the doubles. Both players are entered in this year's meet and it is also expected that many of the promising juniors are expected to compete. Among the possible finalists are Junior Lindsley, Dick Stratton, Fred Boddy, Chester Olson, Bartelia, and others.

The same rules as governed tournaments of the past will be used this year. The rules will be printed in a latter issue. All entries are asked to be in early. The tournament is open and it is hoped that players from nearby cities will enter in the meet. The finals will be played Sunday afternoon, weather permitting. All of the early round matches will be played on the first day and the doubles the following day and any singles matches to be played before the finals of Sunday.

Players who are over 15 years of age are barred from the tournament. However, players whose sixteenth birthday came after January first of this year can enter the meet. Players whose sixteenth birthday came before January first of 1931 cannot compete.

"Balloon Ball" Will Probably Be Official For Rest of Season

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, July 20 (AP)—The days of the "balloon" golf ball may be numbered, as many close observers believe, but it is due for quite a few more flights before anything is done about the protests that have piled up since its adoption this year by the United States golf association.

Speculation was revived today by the publication of reports that the association was about ready to consign the over-sized sphere to the scrap-heap but the fact is that no official action has yet been taken, nor is any decision immediately in sight.

This much can be said on the authority of Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the U. S. G. A. and the dominating figure in its councils. As to what the future may hold, or what conclusions may be reached after more complete analysis of reports from all parts of the country, Mr. Ramsay is diplomatically silent.

Numerous Protests

The best guess right along has been that the balloon ball will continue to be official for the rest of the 1931 big tournament season. It still holds good. At the same time, it will cause no great surprise if the powers-that-be in American golf decide to alter the specifications for 1932.

Protests against the new ball have mounted, since its adoption, but they have not been consistnt or clear-cut enough to form a basis for definite conclusions. Some of the fiery opponents have cooled off under the influence of more thorough tests. Others apparently feel convinced there is a happy medium between the old and new balls, retaining the best features of each—namely, the new size and the old weight.

The new ball is 1.68 inches in diameter, 1.55 in weight. The old ball weighed 1.62 ounces and measured 1.62 inches in diameter.

The chief objections to the "balloon" ball have been that it is difficult to control in the wind, and that it is less reliable on the greens. Its most favorable feature is that it affords generally better "lies" through the fairways.

HELEN DISPLAYS SAME OLD SKILL

Tennis Queen Has Little Trouble Winning Two Tourney Matches

Manchester, Mass., July 20 (AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today launched her eastern singles tennis campaign with the same old skill. She played only 49 minutes to defeat two seasoned tournament players and gain the third round of the Essex County club's invitation play which this year attracted 20 of the nation's 32 best players.

The former champion had an easy first round match with Mrs. Robert Morris, Boston, overwelming her, 6-0, 6-1, by forcing errors with a consistent attack to the back hand. Mrs. Moody's second match with Margaret Blake of Lenox, was more keenly contested than is indicated by the 6-3, 6-1 score.

The Lenox girl, a slam-bang hitter and a tireless getter, broke through Mrs. Moody's service twice in the opening set and scored in several of the long driving duels that thrilled the fair sized gallery of north shore society. At no time, howeevr, was Mrs. Moody seriously threatened by her tournament-wise rival.

The long absence from competition showed in Mrs. Moody's play. Her service was erratic at times and often she had trouble placing her first ball. The other part of her game that appeared below form was her backhand, especially during her second match when she made 18 nets and 10 outs with this stroke.

Mrs. Moody, a bracket behind all but two of the survivors, will oppose Mrs. Mary Lamme, New York, in the third round and, barring accident, will then meet Charlotte Miller of New York.

Safely entrenched in the fourth round were all of the other six seeded players. Eight were favored in the draw of 72 but Mrs. Marian Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del., failed to appear and was defaulted.

Mrs. Laurence A. Harper of Santa Barbara, Cal., ranked first nationally as a result of Mrs. Moody's failure to compete last season, has been seeded second below Mrs. Moody. She advanced on victories over Polly Palfrey, Brookline, 6-0, 6-2, and Mrs. P. B. Hawks, Boston, 6-4, 6-1.

Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, defending champion and third seeded player, eliminated Helen Jones, Swampscott, 6-1, 6-2, and Louise Packer, Winchester, 6-1, 6-1. Dorothy Weisel of Sacramento, Cal., next on the seeded list, overcame Clara Greenspan, New York, 6-4, 6-1, and Lee Palfrew, 6-1, 6-0.

Cleveland Wallops Boston Sox, 9 to 2

Boston, July 20 (AP)—Clint Brown held Boston to four hits today, enabling Cleveland to win, 9 to 2.

The Indians made 14 hits, Sewell being the only man who failed to connect. The Red Sox were able to make but two hits after the first inning.

Tuffy Griffith Has Easy Time In Scrap

Chicago, July 20 (AP)—Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City, Iowa heavyweight, defeated Paul Pantaleo, former Chicago prep football star, in their ten-round battle before 13,000 spectators in the White City out-door Arena tonight. Pantaleo was floored four times and wobbled to his corner half a dozen times under Griffith's terrific battering.

The bout was nothing more than a warm-up for Griffiths, who returned to heavyweight competition after a lay-off of four months due to defective vision.

Griffith was entirely too experienced, aggressive and too fast for the game but inexperienced Chicago youth. Pantaleo gave nine and a half pounds away to Griffith and was soundly beaten in each of the ten rounds. He weighed 179 pounds to 188½ for Griffith.

WALKER READY FOR SHARKEY

Heavyweights to Fight in New York Tomorrow Evening

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

New York, July 20 (AP)—With $85,000 in the till, weather good, and the athletes growling at each other, the fifteen round duel of Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker, the good big man and the good little one, seemed headed tonight toward financial as well as artistic success.

Big Jack and Little Mickey meet Wednesday night at Ebbets Field over the fifteen-round championship route for the left-wing heavyweight crown as opposed to the right wing which Max Schmeling rules. Schmeling, named champion by the New York State Athletic commission after he defeated Sharkey on a foul, has since been deposed by the solemn solons and the Boston sailorman set up in his place.

Both in Pink

Sharkey, with only the four rounds he toyed with Schmeling before planking one low as a fighting record for almost two years, seems to be razor-edge fit for his match with the retired king of the middleweights. He wound up his training today at Pompton Lakes, N. J., slightly under 200 pounds, trim in body, his boxing skill sharply tuned, his hitting tough, deft and sure.

At Orangeburg, N. Y., Walker wound up his training work in probably the best condition he has attained in recent years. He will weigh around 170 pounds, but he has the chest and shoulders of a heavyweight, sturdy, chunky legs, and he hits hard enough to bother any man. In age and experience both warriors should be at their peaks. Both are close to the 30 year old mark and their ring careers date back over 10-year periods.

With continued fine weather, a gate between $150,000 and $200,000 is in prospect, large money for any match at this time.

The Hearst milk fund, promoting the match with Jimmy Johnston, has decreed that there shall be no broadcast.

VON HINDENBURG ASKED HOOVER'S AID ON JUNE 20

of the world in her ability to fulfill her obligations, Germany, however, is most urgently in need of relief. This relief must come immediately if disaster is not to befall us and others. Our people must be vouchsafed tthe possibility of working under conditions of life which are bearable.

Requests Relief

"The relief which is necessary would, through its material and moral effects upon the general crisis, rebound to the benefit of all countries. It would improve conditions in other countries and essentially reduce the danger to Germany of the internal and external tension and strain that have been created by our distress and lack of hope.

"You, Mr. President, as representative of the great American people, hold the possibility within your hands of taking the steps for the German people and for the world by which an immediate change in the situation, so fraught with danger, can be brought about.

"(Signed)
"VON HINDENBURG."

Golfing

How can one obtain a grooved swing?

Without the will to make good and to practice diligently—to serve apprenticeship—one hardly can hope to obtain success.

A grooved swing like that of the stars must be cultivated by many hours of practice in the early stages of the game. To achieve steadiness the swing must be without effort.

The beginner is so busy thinking about the straight left arm, head still and many other things that he hardly gives himself a chance.

We all copy our opponents, so for next Sunday's foursome select a sound exponent of the game.

Hornsby and Schalk Must Pay $50 Fines

BRITISH BEAT U. S. NET TEAM

Upset Americans; to Play France in Finals for Davis Cup

BY FRANK H. KING

Paris, July 19 (AP)—In one of the greatest lawn tennis upsets in years, Great Britain today swept to victory in the last two matches of the Davis cup interzone finals against the United States' won the three-day series, three matches to two, and gained the right to challenge France, cup holder since 1927.

Frederick J. Perry conquered the New York youngster, Sydney B. Wood, 6-3, 8-10, 6-3 6-3, to even the count at 2-2 and then, with America's tennis fate hanging on the final match, Henry W. (Bunny) Austin swamped Frank Shields, of New York, in straight sets, 8-6, 6-3, 7-5.

French Are Happy

The crowd of 8,000, mostly French, which saw the double American defeat, was jubilant for it envisaged French chances of holding the cup would be better against the British challengers than against the United States.

The British team now will clash with France's crippled tennis warriors in the challenge round here, starting Friday.

Shields Slips

An ovation greeted Austin's final polished volley which beat Shields. It was the end of American international tennis hopes for 1931, an end which seemed inevitable as Shields, after a magnificent opening spurt carried the score to 5-2 against Austin, lost the set. He never looked like a winner after that. He had plenty of speed and power, but his errors cost him the match.

When it was over French fans whooped, cheered and dotted the court with hundreds of red cushions hurled from the seats. George Lott, sitting in the stands with John Van Ryn, picked up a newspaper and began to search the steamer lists for a liner home. America's 1931 invasion of Europe was over. Great Britain's revenge for Wimbledon was complete for Shields, who withdrew from the Wimbledon singles final so his injured knee could mend, was soundly beaten while Wood, who holds the Wimbledon title, was beaten here both by Austin and Perry.

Athletics Defeat Chicago, 12-7, After Trailing by 6 to 0

Philadelphia, July 20. (AP)—The Athletics overcame a 6 to 0 lead today to defeat the Chicago White Sox 12 to 7. The champions thus won their twelfth game in 14 clashes with Chicago.

Chicago's lead of six runs, made in the first inning, was wiped out when the Mackmen scored one run in their half and five runs in the second. In the fourth inning Mule Haase and Jimmy Foxx each hit for the circuit, sending the Athletics ahead for the balance of the game.

The White Sox completed a triple steal with the bases full to score its fourth run. Fonseca, Watwood and Grube executed the theft while McDonald was winding up, Fonseca scoring standing up before the young hurler released the ball.

CLUB SPEAKERS TELL OF FAIR

Lundgaard, Rushton and Harvey at Rotary and Kiwanis Meets

Problems that are faced by the Upper Peninsula State Fair this year were presented before Escanaba's service clubs yesterday noon. August A. Lundgaard, president of the board of managers of the fair, and Senator H. J. Rushton, manager, addressed the Rotary club on the subject, and Secretary George E. Harvey was the speaker at the Kiwanis club meeting.

Business and professional men of Escanaba, as represented in the Rotary club, were told by the speakers, that the success or failure of the fair this year must depend, in a large measure, upon the co-operation given by the business interests of this county and the support given by the people of Delta county. The history of the fair was related, in which was recalled the effort expended to provide the necessary buildings and grounds and the determined effort made during the past three years to place the institution upon a paying basis. The speakers recalled, with gratitude, the measure of support accorded in each of the past three years, but pointed out that active support and co-operation with the officials was never more necessary than it will be building a success this fall.

Quality Exhibits

Emphasis was placed by the speakers upon the high quality of the exhibits that are already being prepared in the various counties of the peninsula, particularly in the livestock division, for showing at the peninsula fair and also upon the unusual excellence of the entertainment programs that have been arranged. Manufacturers and business firms of Escanaba were particularly urged yesterday by both Senator Rushton and President Lundgaard to aid the industrial section of the fair, by taking space and arranging displays in the big exhibition building, as it is hoped to make this feature more attractive this year than ever before.

Members of the Rotary club were delightfully entertained yesterday by Professor S. C. Hamm, of Indianola, Ind., who most pleasingly presented a group of three songs. Mr. and Mrs. Hamm and family are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie French.

Fine Entertainment

Addressing the Kiwanis club, Secretary Harvey described at some length the various features of the entertainment program, which he said would be even better than the wonderful set-up at the 1930 fair.

The evening program will be featured by Schooley's revue, "Sensations of 1931." Other acts that will be presented on the 50 by 50 platform, in front of the huge grandstand, are: Asaw's Elephants, Edna Curtis and her Athletic Animals, Cook and Wiswell, Funny Ford, D'Arcy Trio, aerialists; Joe Lewis, internationally known clown, and an imported acrobatic number. Spectacular fireworks will wind up each evening's program.

Johnny T. Jones' World Famous Shows will furnish the midway attractions, Mr. Harvey said.

The opening day of the fair will be Children's Day, and special races and contests are to be conducted for the enjoyment of the youngsters. Thursday will be Governor's Day, and the state's chief executive, Wilber M. Brucker, will be a guest of the U. P. State Fair on that occasion.

Judging from reports received from the various county agents, exhibits of livestock and farm products will be in increased volume, Mr. Harvey told the Kiwanians. Increased interest in the boy's and girls' club department is also anticipated.

Gilbert Helgemo, Stephenson avenue, entertained the Kiwanians with several selections on the harmonica.

STARS PRESENT VETS' PROGRAM

Escanaba Legion to Give County Picnic in August

A musical program which topped anything ever staged at sessions of the Escanaba American Legion featured the regular meeting of Cloverland Post 82 at the Eagles' Hall last night.

Miss Rose Bink, an Escanaba girl, who is signed up as a soloist with George White's "Scandals," sang "Trees," by Joyce Kilmer, soldier-poet, and responded to a boisterous encore to sing "Reaching for the Moon." Her accompanist was Willard Clark of Escanaba. John R. Hall, brother of Britt Hall, a member of the Escanaba Legion, sang "On the Road to Mandalay" and the "Stein Song," responding with a third short number for an encore. Mr. Hall is a member of Joe Cook's famous company in "Fine and Dandy," and is vacationing as a guest of his brother here, awaiting the opening of the fall theatrical season. Miss Margaret Compher of Escanaba acted as his accompanist. As the closing number of the program arranged by Harry Compher, chairman of the entertainment committee, the local Legionnaires heard Miss Julanne Pelletier, an Escanaba girl on the staff of radio station WTMJ, Milwaukee. Miss Pelletier gave a piano selection, "I Want to Sing About You," and "When Summer is Gone," as an encore number.

At the business session, held after the program, plans were laid for a Delta county Legion picnic to be held at Pioneer Trail park in August, and a "Legion Day" at the U. P. State Fair in Escanaba, Aug. 24-29. Commander Henry Breault announced that ten members of the local Legion post had been named on the police committee at the national American Legion convention to be held in Detroit Sept. 21-24. New officers of the Escanaba Legion for the ensuing year are to be nominated by a committee appointed by the commander, and ballots are to be sent out so that the new officers will be named at the next regular meeting of the post.

Ahlmans Honored In Celebration

Newberry, July 20 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Lauri Ahlman were the guests of honor at a celebration held on Sunday afternoon and evening in the Finnish Lutheran church when members of the congregations of the Newberry, American Sault, Dafter, St. Ignace, Munising and Grand Marais churches met here to congratulate them upon the tenth anniversary of his service in this district. There were 160 persons present, the program and other entertainment being in charge of Mike Lyyski, chairman of the church board for this district. A gift of cash was presented, all members contributing to it.

Mr. Ahlman is one of the most beloved and respected ministers in this end of the peninsula. He is 53 years of age, and was ordained at Abo, Finland on October 18, 1903. He came to America and was first stationed at Rock Springs, Wyo., where he married Miss Elin Selin in 1905. The young couple served the western town for six and a half years and then were transfered to San Francisco where they labored in the mission for Finnish seamen for the next eight years. Their four children, Reino, Neil, Lauri and Erja were all born in the Golden Gate city. The family passed through the San Francisco earthquake and fire during which their church and home were destroyed.

Next they were sent to Detroit where they were located four years coming to Newberry in 1921. The four congregations served by this minister aggreate about 400 members and he holds important offices in the Soumi synod representing 36,000 members and 70 congregations.

SCHILLIG SPEAKS

Dr. C. E. Shillig of Omaha, Neb., was the honored guest and principal speaker at the conference of chiropractors of the eastern end of the peninsula, Dr. F. O. Logic of Iron Mountain, president of the U. P. Chiropractors association presided.

The meetings were held partly at the Newberry hotel and partly at the offices of Dr. A. M. Edling of this place. Mostly of an informal nature the sessions were made valuable by a number of papers read by the members. A dinner was served to the delegates at noon.

Among those who attended were, besides those already mentioned, Doctors Swanson of Ishpeming, Mellon of Munising, Shetzman of Manistique, Johnson of Escanaba, Morehouse of the Sault, Ont., and Howard of Sault, Mich, Harriet Walker, Sault, Mich., and Sholander of Negaunee.

The regular convention program was not given because so many members found it impossible to attend and was postponed until a later date which was not set.

NERVE CLINICS

Dr. Redwine, assistant chief of staff, and Mrs. Auten, welfare worker for the Newberry State hospital, are conducting mental and nerve clinics this week in three upper peninsula cities. On Wednesday afternoon they will be in Ishpeming, Thursday morning in Hancock and Friday morning in Marquette.

Fred Coon, who for several months has been a patient at Pinecrest sanatorium, has returned home, appearing much better in health.

Walter Kitson and family of Dearborn arrived on Saturday and will spend a week in the resort region of Manistique lake. They will be joined by Mrs. Kitson, Sr., from Ann Arbor, Peter Pascoe and daughter Ethel Pascoe of Republic. Mr. Kitson is a former superintendent of the local furnace and chemical plant.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Smith are enjoying a visit from their daughter Mrs. H. N. Smith of Saskatoon and a party of friends from Rockford, Ill. Among the guests are Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Dillard and Miss Alma Wright.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION

Luce lodge No. 89, I. O. O. F., will be the host tonight to Grand Master Francis Kulp and Grand Secretary Rogers of Lansing, when there will be an exemplification of the work and a school of instruction. These two fraternal men were making a tour of the U. P. visiting the lodges of this district.

DETECTIVES CRY

El Paso, Tex.—Ray L. Miller, store manager, put some tear gas bombs in his safe and arranged them so that if burglars broken open the strong box they would be blinded by the gas. All of which made Detectives Wilson and Armstrong shed large tears. Burglars broke open the safe, got $200 from it and left the room so full of tear gas that when the detectives appeared on the scenes they had to break down and cry.

SUNDAY STORM CAUSES DAMAGE

300 Phones Cut Off; Shower Helps Firemen

Uprooted trees, broken limbs, telephone and electric lines out of commission, were reported in the wake of the wind and rain storm which swept Escanaba Sunday afternoon.

One electric transformer was burned out, and a number of fuses had to be replaced. The Michigan Bell Telephone company reported about 300 telephones out of commission, as a result of the electrical disturbance. A cable line near the St. Francis hospital was struck by a bolt of lightning, and 100 pairs of wires were severed. An emergency line was laid along the ground to connect up the hospital, and other telephones in the district were repaired before morning by the line crews who started work Sunday evening. Another cable was put out of commission at Wells, and this disconnected several telephones near the Chemical plant location. It is expected that all repair work will be completed by this morning.

A fire which is believed to have been started from a cigarette discarded by blueberry pickers in the vicinity of the St. Paul docks started in the Erickson & Bissell pole yards Sunday afternoon and in a few minutes had spread to a large pile of poles causing damage estimated at about $100. The fire department, called to the scene, used chemicals to put out the fire as there are no water hydrants in that vicinity.

The call was sent in just at the time of the high wind which preceded the rain storm. The heavy rain which followed helped the firemen make sure that the blaze would do no further damage.

Because of the great increase in the number of visitors from the United States many new hotels are to be built in the larger cities of Mexico.
